MYSTERIOUS WAVE OF POISON SWEEPS BELGIAN VILLAGES

Suffocating Pall, Which Choked Life Out of More Than Three Score Dwellers in Meuse Valley, Disappears, But Region Left in State of Fear—Poisonous Gas Theory Rejected by Investigators.

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 6—(AP)—Fog, and fog alone, was the cause of more than three score deaths in the Meuse valley during the past two days, the provincial health commissioner announced this afternoon at the end of an official investigation.

There was no lethal gas and no caustic chemical in the yellow mist which swept through the valley, dealing death to those already weakened by respiratory ailments, he said, and there was no basis for the belief of terrorized peasants that death was stalking through the fog in the guise of war gases.

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 6—(AP)—Although the death cloud lifted today from the stricken district of Belgium, where sixty-four victims succumbed to suffocating fog within the past forty-eight hours, the region is still fearful of the terror that has passed.

The best medical opinion was that the numerous deaths by choking were entirely due to unusual atmospheric conditions of wet freezing fog rather than poisonous fumes

Whatever the scientific explanation, the inhabitants of the affected region seem unable to get over a haunting reversion to wartime days Peasants and old women went about

Arrangements were made through the court whereby the boys went Saturday to the coal companies to work out pay for the coal which was taken.

Mrs. Lucky's trial was set by Municipal Judge Polk for December 9 Her bond was fixed at $500, but she was released on her own recognizance.

HASTINGS GETS CAGE TOURNEY

High School Basketball Meet Goes Outside of Lincoln First Time.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 6—The 1931 Nebraska high school basketball tournament will be held at Hastings, according to announcement made today by Walter I Black, secretary of the Nebraska High School Athletic association. It will be the first time the state cage carnival has not been held at the University of Nebraska.

It is understood the high school control board made the move in the hopes the tourney would draw larger receipts from the Hastings crowd, as the athletic organization takes a share of the "total gate" of the tournament.

The high school control board also voted to excuse Omaha teams from qualifying by regional tournaments permitting the Omaha schools to enter their champion team. However, the board decided that if the Omaha champion enters the state meet, the Omaha schools must pay into the control board's coffers 1 per cent of the total agte receipts of the round robin city series or contribute 25 per cent of the gate at a post-season game between the two Omaha leaders, the winning team being entered in the state finals.

Omaha high school principals will meet next week to accept or decline the control board's offer.

SENATORS QUIZ NOMINEES FOR TARIFF BOARD

Committee Questions Three Appointees on Qualifications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6— (AP) — The senate finance committee today inquired into the past and present connections of three of President Hoover's six tariff commissioners. Examination of the others was deferred until Monday.

The committee adopted the unusual procedure of hearing the nominees in open session to determine if they should be recommended for confirmation.

Chairman Smoot objected to a public session, but he was overruled by 6 to 5, Senator Couzens, Michigan and LaFollette, Wisconsin, republicans, voting with the democrats present against a secret meeting.

Three Are Questioned.

Those questioned were Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, republican chairman of the commission; T. W. Page, democrat, Virginia and John Lee Coulter, republican, North Dakota. The others are Edgar B. Brossard, republican, Utah; Alfred P. Dennis, democrat, Maryland, and Lincoln Dixon, democrat, Indiana.

Fletcher denied any recent political activity, said he had not indulged in any tariff lobbying, nor did he hold any stock that might be affected by the tariff.

Page said he still was opposed to the flexible tariff, but believed the new provision was an improvement over the old one.

Senator Smoot predicted all the nominees would be approved by his committee.

"The door opened and in walked these men," said Lamber Bere, vice-president and cashier. "They waved their guns. One of the bandits shouted that it was a holdup.

Coast Dance Raid Ends In Pitched Fight

More than 100 men and four women were arrested and bundled off to jails in Hollywood and Los Angeles.

Vagrancy charges were lodged against those jailed. The entertainment took place in the loft of a storage building.

When fourteen officers of the vice squad attempted to place performers and members of the audience under arrest a pitched battle resulted. Every available officer in four divisions was called to the scene. Several persons were injured in the fighting that followed. Bottles were hurled and used as clubs.

The women arrested, charged with performing the dances, asserted their clothing had been torn from them by intoxicated spectators

Police said liquor was in evidence and gambling games were in progress when the raid was made.

JURY SELECTED TO TRY SHEPARD

Government's Charge of Murder Against Army Major Outlined.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 6—(AP) —The government's charge that Maj. Charles A. Shepherd fatally poisoned his second wife because of infatuation for Miss Grace Brandon, pretty 22-year-old blonde stenographer of San Antonio, Tex., was outlined to the jury in his murder trial today.

S. M. Brewster, federal district attorney, made the opening statement for the government against the 59-year-old army medical officer, who is accused of murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Zenana Shepard at Fort Riley, Kas., June 15, 1929.

"The government will show," Brewster asserted, "that Mrs Shepard died from a slow acting poison. It will show that the major prescribed and administered the medicine in Mrs. Shepard's fatal illness."

The statement included the charge that Major Shepard refused the plea of his brother officers to obtain civilian medical advice until too late.

BRUENING WINS VICTORIES OVER REICH ENEMIES

German Chancellor Sustained Three Times in Legislative Body.

A NO CONFIDENCE VOTE IS DEFEATED

Foes Do Not in Reality Want to Overthrow the Government.

BERLIN, Dec. 6 —(AP)— The Bruening government defeated the opposition three times in the reichstag today. The government won by 40 votes against a motion to revoke the chancellor's emergency financial decree; by 65 votes on a proposal to table a motion of confidence ironically offered by the national socialists, and by 35 votes in a no confidence motion introduced by the opposition.

Thus the government proved once more that it is much stronger than was generally believed Now it can go ahead and put the emergency financial reforms into full effect.

In the corridors after the vote there was a general atmosphere of relief even among the opposition, for nobody envies Gruening his unpopular job and no opposition bloc really wants to overthrow the government

ATTORNEYS PAY CAPITAL VISIT

Sandall and VanPelt to See Attorney General Mitchell.

To Discuss Matters in Connection With Their Offices.

Charles A. Sandall of Omaha, U. S. district attorney for Nebraska, and Robert Van Pelt, assistant for the Lincoln division, will leave Saturday evening for Washington, D. C., to confer with Attorney General William D. Mitchell on a number of Nebraska problems.

Arrangements for the conference were made at the suggestion of Mr. Sandall. The two Nebraskans plan to remain in the capital for several days. Mr. Van Pelt declined to discuss the specific matters to be considered, but there are two outstanding ones in the Lincoln division which are not likely to escape attention.

The first is prosecution for alleged perjury, wire tapping and impeachment of officers arising out of the investigation by the senate committee headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye, into Nebraska's senatorial primary and election campaigns.

War Risk Insurance.

Several war risk insurance cases against the government are pending in the Lincoln division, concerning which the veterans bureau has suggested conference with the attorney general. Although these problems existed prior to that time, the situation has been involved by the opinion handed down by Circuit Judge W. S. Kenyon at St. Louis last week.

Mr. Van Pelt said that he had not yet succeeded in obtaining a copy of the opinion, but newspaper reports from St. Louis said last Saturday that Judge Kenyon declared that performance of remunerative labor after discharge from the army did not necessarily disqualify a veteran from payment under his war risk insurance as "permanently and totally disabled."

This principle has been recognized in part by Judge T. C. Munger in recent war risk insurance controversies in the local Federal court. In his instructions to the jury in several cases, Judge Munger has declared that if such work was performed de. ite serious danger to health and life, it did not invalidate the veteran's claim to insurance.

Whether Judge Kenyon's opinion went any further than this is not known here

MAY REMAIN IN DETENTION HOME

Towle Says County Not Required to Vacate Premises.

The Social Welfare society cannot force Lancaster county to vacate property at 745 Rose street, now in use as a detention home, on or before December 9, County Attorney Max G. Towle advised in an opinion drawn up Saturday. His attention was called to occupancy of the premises, following receipt of a purported order to the commissioners from the society Friday demanding vacation of the Rose street property before next Wednesday.

In his opinion, Mr. Towle questions title of the welfare society, and states that he believes the county has a fair chance of establishing a claim as part owner of the detention home. He adds further that he believes it would take the society at least several months to obtain possession and that the county may have a chance of remaining indefinitely.

County Attorney's Opinion.

After stating that no law exists which makes it necessary for the county to comply with the order to vacate before December 9, Towle continues in his opinion.

"Before the county would be forced to vacate the premises it would be necessary for the owner of said property to first serve a proper notice to vacate and to then bring a forcible entry and detention suit, and they must further sustain their position in court and even though the court determines the case in favor of the owner of the premises there is always 10 days thereafter to vacate

Thieves Frightened Away After Forcing Way in Lincoln Home

Thieves successfully forced an entrance into the home of Mrs. A. C. Schwenker, 5610 Huntington avenue, Friday evening, but apparently were frightened away before they could take anything, according to police reports.

Hearing a noise in the rear of her house at about 10 o'clock in the evening, Mrs Schwenker went into her kitchen to investigate. She found that a hole had been cut in the screen, the screen unfastened and the kitchen window raised. A step-ladder, apparently used to reach the window, was left behind by the thieves. Part of a radio aerial that led through the window was taken down by the marauders, but was left on the ground near the window.

As Rogers Sees It

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6— The president delivered a message to congress but none of the papers on the coast had room for it on account of it being at the same time the Notre Dame football team was arriving out here. Talk about business depression! The stadium where they play in Southern California was built just for Iowa picnics and seats about an eighth of a million. Talk about getting in! Why, I paid ten dollars a ticket just for space to hear over the radio.

Yours, WILL.

DROUTH AID FUND IS COMPROMISED

House Committee Approves $30,000,000 Loan to Farmers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—The house agriculture committee today approved legislation for a $30,000,000 seed, feed and fertilizer loan to farmers in drouth areas. The vote was 11 to 7.

The committee first rejected by 12 to 6 the resolution of Representative Aswell, democrat, Louisiana, making the fund $60,000,000.

The larger amount was unanimously approved yesterday by the senate agriculture committee.

The administration-set figure was $25,000,000, and Representative Ketcham, republican, Michigan, proposed the compromise.

Aswell, ranking democratic committee member, reserved the right to file a minority report and asked the house for $60,000,0000.

SENATORS QUIZ NOMINEES FOR TARIFF BOARD

Committee Questions Three Appointees on Qualifications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6— (AP) — The senate finance committee today inquired into the past and present connections of three of President Hoover's six tariff commissioners. Examination of the others was deferred until Monday.

The committee adopted the unusual procedure of hearing the nominees in open session to determine if they should be recommended for confirmation.

Chairman Smoot objected to a public session, but he was overruled by 6 to 5, Senator Couzens, Michigan and LaFollette, Wisconsin, republicans, voting with the democrats present against a secret meeting.

Three Are Questioned.

Those questioned were Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, republican chairman of the commission; T. W. Page, democrat, Virginia and John Lee Coulter, republican, North Dakota. The others are Edgar B. Brossard, republican, Utah; Alfred P. Dennis, democrat, Maryland, and Lincoln Dixon, democrat, Indiana.

Fletcher denied any recent political activity, said he had not indulged in any tariff lobbying, nor did he hold any stock that might be affected by the tariff.

Page said he still was opposed to the flexible tariff, but believed the new provision was an improvement over the old one.

Senator Smoot predicted all the nominees would be approved by his committee.

Bank in Chicago Suburb Is Robbed Of Over $40,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 —(AP)— Six bandits, armed with machine guns, entered the State Bank of Clearing, on the southwest side, today, forced eleven employes and twenty customers to lie on the floor, and looted the bank of $40,000.

The money was taken from the vaults where it had been placed preparatory to cashing checks for industrial workers.

"The door opened and in walked these men," said Lamber Bere, vice-president and cashier. "They waved their guns. One of the bandits shouted that it was a holdup.

"The customers and employes stood silent for a moment. The robbers forced everyone outside the cages to lie on the floor near the front entrance. They had a man stationed there with a machine gun."

$100,000 Brewery Raided in Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 6—(AP)—A liquor manufacturing plant valued by the police at $100,000 was seized today on the south side. Two men were arrested on the roof of the building as they were trying to escape. It was the second largest liquor raid of the week by city police.

Coast Dance Raid Ends In Pitched Fight

Five Hundred Join in Attack on Police; 100 Arrested.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 6—(AP)—Five hundred men fought 150 policemen here early today when officers raided an alleged immoral dance and the spectators turned upon the raiders.

More than 100 men and four women were arrested and bundled off to jails in Hollywood and Los Angeles.

Vagrancy charges were lodged against those jailed. The entertainment took place in the loft of a storage building.

When fourteen officers of the vice squad attempted to place performers and members of the audience under arrest a pitched battle resulted. Every available officer in four divisions was called to the scene. Several persons were injured in the fighting that followed. Bottles were hurled and used as clubs.

The women arrested, charged with performing the dances, asserted their clothing had been torn from them by intoxicated spectators.

Police said liquor was in evidence and gambling games were in progress when the raid was made.

POLACCO RESIGNS

CHICAGO, Dec. 6—(AP)—Giorgio Polacco has resigned as musical director and conductor of the Chicago Civic Opera Co., and no immediate announcement of his successor is in prospect. Maestro Polacco, in charge since 1922, has been prevented by illness from leaving his home in Milan, Italy, it is said, and his resignation was accepted "with very great regret."

Polacco was divorced last summer from Edith Mason, former star soprano with the company.

JURY SELECTED TO TRY SHEPARD

Government's Charge of Murder Against Army Major Outlined.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 6—(AP)—The government's charge that Maj. Charles A. Shepherd fatally poinsoned his second wife because of infatuation for Miss Grace Brandon, pretty 22-year-old blonde stenographer of San Antonio, Tex., was outlined to the jury in his murder trial today.

S. M. Brewster, federal district attorney, made the opening statement for the government against the 59-year-old army medical officer, who is accused of murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Zenana Shepard at Fort Riley, Kas., June 15, 1929.

"The government will show," Brewster asserted, "that Mrs. Shepard died from a slow acting poison. It will show that the major prescribed and administered the medicine in Mrs. Shepard's fatal illness."

The statement included the charge that Major Shepard refused the plea of his brother officers to obtain civilian medical advice until too late.

BRUENING WINS VICTORIES OVER REICH ENEMIES

German Chancellor Sustained Three Times in Legislative Body.

A NO CONFIDENCE VOTE IS DEFEATED

Foes Do Not in Reality Want to Overthrow the Government.

BERLIN, Dec. 6 —(AP)— The Bruening government defeated the opposition three times in the reichstag today. The government won by 40 votes against a motion to revoke the chancellor's emergency financial decree; by 65 votes on a proposal to table a motion of confidence ironically offered by the national socialists, and by 35 votes in a no confidence motion introduced by the opposition.

Thus the government proved once more that it is much stronger than was generally believed. Now it can go ahead and put the emergency financial reforms into full effect.

In the corridors after the vote there was a general atmosphere of relief even among the opposition, for nobody envies Gruening his unpopular job and no opposition bloc really wants to overthrow the government.

ATTORNEYS PAY CAPITAL VISIT

Sandall and VanPelt to See Attorney General Mitchell.

To Discuss Matters in Connection With Their Offices.

Charles A. Sandall of Omaha, U. S. district attorney for Nebraska, and Robert Van Pelt, assistant for the Lincoln division, will leave Saturday evening for Washington, D. C., to confer with Attorney General William D. Mitchell on a number of Nebraska problems.

Arrangements for the conference were made at the suggestion of Mr. Sandall. The two Nebraskans plan to remain in the capital for several days. Mr. Van Pelt declined to discuss the specific matters to be considered, but there are two outstanding ones in the Lincoln division which are not likely to escape attention.

The first is prosecution for alleged perjury, wire tapping and impersonation of officers arising out of the investigation by the senate committee headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye, into Nebraska's senatorial primary and election campaigns.

War Risk Insurance.

Several war risk insurance cases against the government are pending in the Lincoln division, concerning which the veterans bureau has suggested conference with the attorney general. Although these problems existed prior to that time, the situation has been involved by the opinion handed down by Circuit Judge W. S. Kenyon at St. Louis last week.

Mr. Van Pelt said that he had not yet succeeded in obtaining a copy of the opinion, but newspaper reports from St. Louis said last Saturday that Judge Kenyon declared that performance of remunerative labor after discharge from the army did not necessarily disqualify a veteran from payment under his war risk insurance as "permanently and totally disabled."

This principle has been recognized in part by Judge T. C. Munger in recent war risk insurance controversies in the local Federal court. In his instructions to the jury in several cases, Judge Munger has declared that if such work was performed de. ite serious danger to health and life, it did not invalidate the veteran's claim to insurance.

Whether Judge Kenyon's opinion went any further than this is not known here.

RAY ABBOTT SENT TO REFORMATORY ON GUILTY PLEA

Admits Fatally Injuring Arnold Warner, 15, During Fight in Box Car at Fairbury Two Months Ago — Leniency Asked by Attorney Who Says Parents of Victim Not Demanding Severe Sentence.

(Special to The Star)

FAIRBURY, Neb. Dec. 6—Pleading guilty to a second degree murder charge, Ray Castle Abbott, 17, of Lincoln was sentenced to ten years in the state reformatory Saturday morning by District Judge Messmore. Abbott admitted fatally injuring Arnold Warner, 15, also of Lincoln, in a fight in a box car on November 11 while the two youths were "bumming" their way to Lincoln.

Leniency for Abbott was asked by his attorney, Frank M. Coffey of Lincoln, on the grounds that the youth had told everything in connection with the fight. He declared that Warner's parents were not asking a severe sentence. Abbott's Confession Aids Officers.

County Attorney A. J. Denney made no objections to leniency. He pointed out that Abbott showed the effects of the fight in the box car and that his confession had aided officers.

Abbott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Abbott, 3708 North Eleventh street, Lincoln were not in the

Thieves Frightened Away After Forcing Way in Lincoln Home

Thieves successfully forced an entrance into the home of Mrs. A. C. Schwenker, 5610 Huntington avenue, Friday evening, but apparently were frightened away before they could take anything, according to police reports.

Hearing a noise in the rear of her house at about 10 o'clock in the evening, Mrs. Schwenker went into her kitchen to investigate. She found that a hole had been cut in the screen, the screen unfastened and the kitchen window raised. A step-ladder, apparently used to reach the window, was left behind by the thieves. Part of a radio aerial that led through the window was taken down by the marauders, but was left on the ground near the window.

MAY REMAIN IN DETENTION HOME

Towle Says County Not Required to Vacate Premises.

The Social Welfare society cannot force Lancaster county to vacate property at 746 Rose street, now in use as a detention home, on or before December 9, County Attorney Max G. Towle advised in an opinion drawn up Saturday. His attention was called to occupancy of the premises, following receipt of a purported order to the commissioners from the society Friday demanding vacation of the Rose street property before next Wednesday.

In his opinion, Mr. Towle questions title of the welfare society, and states that he believes the county has a fair chance of establishing a claim as part owner of the detention home. He adds further that he believes it would take the society at least several months to obtain possession and that the county may have a chance of remaining indefinitely.

County Attorney's Opinion.

After stating that no law exists which makes it necessary for the county to comply with the order to vacate before December 9, Towle continues in his opinion:

"Before the county would be forced to vacate the premises it would be necessary for the owner of said property to first serve a proper notice to vacate and to then bring a forcible entry and detention suit; and they must further sustain their position in court and even though the court determines the case in favor of the owner of the premises there is always 10 days thereafter to vacate.

"My personal opinion is, however, that

The commission will investigate the feasibility of the proposal and likely cost.

Dictaphone Returned—"Speaking for itself," a dictaphone instructed its finder, Alex Grasmick, 15, 157 L street, that the machine belonged to the Lincoln hatchery, First and P streets. It had been stolen about two weeks ago, and was found in some weeds near the west end of the O street viaduct. The dictaphone bore no identification, but when the youth set the machine to work, he found that the record was of dictated letters of the hatchery. He called W. G. Lewis, president of the company, who in turn, informed police that the machine had been recovered.

Accountants Install Officers—Officers and directors of the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants elected recently at a meeting in Omaha, were installed in a regular business meeting of the club held Friday evening at the University club. Worthington, 3126 Starr street, pleaded guilty in Municipal court to the charge and was given the minimum fine of $10 and costs. Lewis Scholten, 606 West Second street, who was arrested with Worthington, was arraigned on a charge of illegal possession of liquor, and fined $50 and costs.

In view of the fact that the county has at all times been ready to pay the $50 rental as agreed upon, it would take at least several months, if not longer, for the Social Welfare to obtain possession of the premises, assuming of course, that they are the owners of the property, which I do not understand the fact to be. It is my understanding from talking with parties in a position to know, now connected with Lancaster county in an official capacity, that the present property occupied by the detention home was purchased in 1908 with the definite idea in mind that it was to be used as a detention home.

"Judge Lincoln Frost was the father of that movement and it was through his efforts that several organizations, among them being Lancaster county, made contributions aggregating approximately $9,000, for the payment of these premises, further, that the title to the premises was placed in the Social Welfare agency for convenience alone and that they have held the property since that time in trust, and that the $50 rental paid by the county was paid in order that the maintenance and upkeep of the building should be taken care of by the user thereof.

"With these facts established I am inclined to believe that the county has a fair chance of establishing its claim as part owner of the premises.

"In conclusion, let me advise that in so far as the law is concerned, there is no way that Lancaster county can be forced to vacate the premises on December 9, the date fixed in the notice, and it is my personal opinion that the county has a fair chance to remaining there indefinitely."

court. Neither were Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Warner, 1345 Saunders street, Lincoln the parents of the slain boy.

Abbott was to be taken to Lincoln Saturday afternoon to begin serving his ten-year term.

Body Found In Box Car.

The body of Arnold Warner was found in a box car in the local Rock Island yards here November 11. At first it was thought the death was accidental. Later police received word from Fairbury which led to the arrest of Abbott, and to his confession.

Abbott's first story was that the fight followed a quarrel over a trivial matter. Later he admitted that he attempted to mistreat the Warner boy.

Both Abbott and Warner were "runaways." They had spent the summer in Colorado and were returning to their homes in the freight car in which the fight took place. Immediately after the battle, in which Abbott struck the younger boy with a club several times, Abbott left the train at Fairbury. He received medical attention there and then caught a ride to Lincoln.

MILK PRODUCERS ARE DISTURBED

Protest on Prices Paid For Products From 1,272 Dairymen.

A petition bearing the signatures of 1,272 dairymen throughout Nebraska, expressing dissatisfaction with present milk marketing conditions, was presented before a meeting of more than 400 members of the Nebraska Milk Producers' association, Friday evening, at the student activity building of the agricultural college.

Officers of the association which was formed following the recent action of the Lincoln city commission placing certain restrictions on creameries and dairymen, were announced as follows: M. K. Craig, president; George L. Rollison and H. S. Weaver, vice presidents; Edwin Gruntorad, secretary, and Walter May, Hickman, treasurer.

Oppose City Program.

In dealing with the petition the dairymen made special objection to sediment and "blue," or methylan tests as prescribed by the commission and with the wide margin of price existing between the producer's marketing return and the price paid by the consumer. "We, the undersigned milk producers, wish to express that we are dissatisfied with present prices and conditions as existing in the dairy business," the petition states.

A committee comprising G. L. Rollison, J. L. White and Peter Hornby, reported that after interviewing the various Lincoln creameries and dairies, little action on the part of the companies could be expected in remedying the situation.

Name Committee.

A committee including G. L. Rollison, Lew White, A. Frank, Floyd Sturd, and A. Malone, was appointed to investigate the steps being taken by the Omaha district of the association to remedy a similar condition in Omaha. I. W. Jacoby was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate wholesale and retail selling of milk in the city of Lincoln. Mr. Jacoby is to name his own committee workers.

The next meeting of the association has been set for Friday evening, December 12, at the agricultural college.

Mayor Don L. Love expresses general approbation of the sentiment voiced in a letter from John L. Mattox, local attorney, Friday, in which Mattox urged smaller driveways for gasoline stations in the downtown district.

Mattox said that protection of pedestrians and conserving of auto parking sites prompted his suggestion.

Mayor Love declared, "My belief is and has always been that gasoline stations should be given reasonable driveway space and no more."

The McBurney Point
Are Women Brave?
Death by Drink
Death by Fire
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Mr. Barnes, head of the United States Chamber of Commerce, tells President Hoover that he thinks congress should be most cautious in these "sensitive times." No extra session. The less of congress, the better for the nation, is a widespread conservative opinion.

On the other hand, every surgeon will tell Mr. Barnes that when there is great sensitiveness, there is often a need of a major operation.

If your McBurney point, low down on the right hand side of your abdomen, is sensitive, your appendix should come out.

In "these sensitive times," perhaps, this country needs some major operation. Who will attend to it, if not congress? It may be a poor thing, but it's all we have.

Gentlemen with big necks used to say women should not vote until they became as brave as men. They vote now, and have always been much braver than men. Consider for instance Miss Winifred Spooner, English, 23 years old, flying from London to South Africa, attempting to make the trip in five days.

Her plane was forced down on the Mediterranean at midnight two miles from shore. Miss Spooner and her flying companion who was not a good swimmer were both injured. This did not keep the young English girl from swimming two miles to the shore through the darkness seeking help for her companion.

A well-known man, formerly head, by inheritance of a great industrial organization, owner of a famous racing stable, possessing many millions, was found dead outside of his door yesterday. Doctors attribute his death to "acute ethylism, or alcoholism."

A man with many millions who drinks violently, drinks usually because he is bored.

Money with no other interest except race horses and such toys is boredom.

Almost any man can succeed in spite of poverty.

Few men succeed in spite of wealth. Fathers that kill effort in their sons by making them rich, do them no favor.

In New Jersey, Emil Witke, past 50 years old, and a recluse, built a funeral pyre of wood, paper, pieces of furniture, in his room, poured kerosene over it, lay down upon it, lighted a match and was burned to death. The agony lasted a few minutes at most, smoke mercifully ending it. But the death fills us with horror.

It might arouse thought in some who believe that divine power sentences creatures that it has made to burn in more horrible agony, forever and ever, through billions of years, where "their worm dieth not." What the vilest man would not do to a dog that had bitten him, he thinks his God does, to millions of human beings.

Gen. Hugh L. Cooper, the American hydraulic engineer in charge of the Russian waterfall project, with its enormous dam, a mile long, believes that Russian ideas will change, gradually, and become less violently communistic.

They will, of course. Communism says to divide. Human being are selfish, and as they accumulate more property the idea of dividing interests them less and less.

Those that want to see Russia back up from the Karl Marx idea, toward the United States of America dollar idea, should pray that Russians may succeed financially. Nothing like wealth to make men conservative, and change their opinions.

For the first time since 1928, the football players of Notre Dame see odds quoted against them. Bookmakers bet 10-to-8 that Southern California will beat the "unbeatable Notre Dame-Rockne team."

The combination of energy and sunshine from California is expected to conquer the wonderful fighting Irish and middle west blend of Notre Dame.

Yet, strangely, the original inhabitants of California, Indians, overpowered by the climate, lived on grasshoppers and such things, lacking the energy to capture bigger game.

GATES IS HEAD OF EDUCATORS

Grand Island Man Is Elected President State Teachers.

No Definite Plan for Tax Distribution is Recommended.

OMAHA, Dec. 6—(AP)—C. Ray Gates, superintendent of schools at Grand Island, Friday was named president of the Nebraska State Teachers association. Mr Gates has been head of the Grand Island schools for the past nine years.

G. F. Liebendorfer, Sidney superintendent, was elected vice president and O. L. Webb, superintendent at David City was re-elected treasurer. E. M. Hosman of Lincoln, was re-elected general secretary. This was the tenth consecutive term as secretary for Mr Hosman, whose work in that post was highly praised by the teachers.

The election of officers marked the close of the annual meeting of the association's delegate assembly.

Mr. Gates, the new president, has lived in Nebraska for 40 years and has been in school work for 25 years. He is a graduate of Auburn high school, Peru state normal college, the University of Nebraska and has an M. A degree from Columbia university. He succeeds H. B. Simon of Norfolk.

Discuss Tax Plans.

Following the unanimous adoption of the report of the legislative committee, which declared that "the tax plan to provide funds for equalizing the burden of school support is the problem of experts and the legislature," Superintendent W. A. Rosene of Callaway, urged that a definite tax plan be formulated. Men and women who have been fighting the school tax battle for years are just as capable of drafting a plan as most of the legislators, Mr. Rosene said.

"Unless the association devises a definite plan there is no telling what the legislature may start working on," said he.

On the suggestion of Archer L. Burnham, Beatrice superintendent, the slogan of "Equalization of Educational opportunity" was shunted aside and a new slogan of "Equalize the Tax for Public Instruction" was adopted.

Resolutions urging the appointment of a "competent, qualified tax commission to determine the educational and economic facts upon which to build a sane and just system of taxation" were adopted.

Another resolution declared that the University of Nebraska and the state teachers colleges "should take more systematic and scientific steps to identify and eliminate students unfitted and unsuitable to the teaching profession."

The athletic commission recommended "a shifting of emphasis from intensive athletic coaching of first teams in order to win contests to a broader training in athletics and physical education for a larger number of pupils."

Possible blacklisting of books and magazines tending "to tear down the character of school children in Nebraska" was discussed with the majority of the delegates favoring a censorship of publications.

Miss Sally Pickard Presented As Honorary Colonel At Annual Military Ball of University

SALLY PICKARD.

Amid the medieval settings of a feudal castle in the university coliseum Friday night Miss Sally Pickard of Omaha was presented to the more than 900 couples attending the twenty-second annual military ball as the new honorary colonel of the R. O. T. C regiment.

Miss Pickard was elected early in the fall by popular vote. It was not until 10.30 o'clock Friday night when she stepped over the little drawbridge that linked the castle on the stage to the ballroom setting that the identity of the honorary colonel was known. Attired in a uniform of new design and color, featuring the scarlet and cream of Nebraska and carried out in military style, Miss Pickard, a member of Pi Beta Phi and president of the local chapter of Mortar Board, was formally introduced to the regiment during the grand march.

Cadet Colonel Winston Behn escorted Miss Pickard through the long line of arched sabers as she received the applause from a crowd which was said by Col. W. H. Oury to be the largest in Military ball history. George E. Lee and his Brunswick recording orchestra, furnished music for the dancing and played during the presentation and grand march.

The party started at 8:30 and closed at 12 o'clock. Those in attendance were in formal dress, officers of the regiment being in full uniform. Dim lighting was used under the gigantic canopy which enveloped the entire dance floor. Members of Pershing Rifles participating in the presentation were dressed in military costumes depicting every war that the United States has been engaged in since 1776.

Before the introduction of the honorary colonel several dances were dedicated to the various regimental, battalion and company sponsors. These sponsors were presented to the crowd and were given white overseas caps with the Nebraska insignia, emblematic of their connections with their particular units.

Command posts were erected in each of the four corners of the coliseum and presided over by battalion commanders who provided lounges and chairs for the dancers. Punch was served from each one of these posts and several of the many patrons and patronesses were introduced to those in attendance at the party from these posts.

Twenty-four Locks on Mississippi Proposed

WASHINGTON, Dec 6—(AP)—Construction of twenty-four new locks and dams for a nine-foot channel on the upper Mississippi was recommended today in the final report of the survey by the army engineers.

The survey was authorized by congress in 1927. The cost of the new construction together with dredging and other necessary works was estimated at $124,000,000, with $1,750,000 required annually for operation, care of locks and dams and channel maintenance.

The army's board of engineers will review the survey.

in view of the fact that the county has at all times been ready to pay the $50 rental as agreed upon, it would take at least several months, if not longer, for the Social Welfare to obtain possession of the premises, assuming of course, that they are the owners of the property, which I do not understand the fact to be. It is my understanding from talking with parties in a position to know, now connected with Lancaster county in an official capacity, that the present property occupied by the detention home was purchased in 1908 with the definite idea in mind that it was to be used as a detention home.

"Judge Lincoln Frost was the father of that movement and it was through his efforts that several organizations, among them being Lancaster county, made contributions aggregating approximately $9,000, for the payment of these premises; further, that the title to the premises was placed in the Social Welfare agency for convenience alone and that they have held the property since that time in trust, and that the $50 rental paid by the county was paid in order that the maintenance and upkeep of the building should be taken care of by the user thereof.

"With these facts established I am inclined to believe that the county has a fair chance of establishing its claim as part owner of the premises.

"In conclusion, let me advise that in so far as the law is concerned, there is no way that Lancaster county can be forced to vacate the premises on December 9, the date fixed in the notice, and it is my personal opinion that the county has a fair chance to remaining there indefinitely."

court. Neither were Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Warner, 1345 Saunders street, Lincoln, the parents of the slain boy.

Abbott was to be taken to Lincoln Saturday afternoon to begin serving his ten-year term.

Body Found In Box Car.

The body of Arnold Warner was found in a box car in the local Rock Island yards here November 11. At first it was thought the death was accidental. Later police received word from Fairbury which led to the arrest of Abbott, and to his confession.

Abbott's first story was that the fight followed a quarrel over a trivial matter. Later he admitted that he attempted to mistreat the Warner boy.

Both Abbott and Warner were "runaways." They had spent the summer in Colorado and were returning to their homes in the freight car in which the fight took place. Immediately after the battle, in which Abbott struck the younger boy with a club several times, Abbott left the train at Fairbury. He received medical attention there and then caught a ride to Lincoln.

MILK PRODUCERS ARE DISTURBED

Protest on Prices Paid For Products From 1,272 Dairymen.

A petition bearing the signatures of 1,272 dairymen throughout Nebraska, expressing dissatisfaction with present milk marketing conditions, was presented before a meeting of more than 400 members of the Nebraska Milk Producers' association, Friday evening, at the student activity building of the agricultural college.

Officers of the association which was formed following the recent action of the Lincoln city commission placing certain restrictions on creameries and dairymen, were announced as follows: M. K. Craig, president; George L. Rollison and H. S. Weaver, vice presidents; Edwin Gruntorad, secretary, and Walter May, Hickman, treasurer.

Oppose City Program.

In dealing with the petition the dairymen made spcial objection to sediment and "blue," or methylan tests as prescribed by the commission and with the wide margin of price existing between the producer's marketing return and the price paid by the consumer. "We, the undersigned milk producers, wish to express that we are dissatisfied with present prices and conditions as existing in the dairy business," the petition states.

A committee comprising: G. L. Rollison, J. L. White and Peter Hornby, reported that after interviewing the various Lincoln creameries and dairies, little action on the part of the companies could be expected in remedying the situation.

Name Committee.

A committee including G. L. Rollison, Lew White, A. Frank, Floyd Sturd, and A. Malone, was appointed to investigate the steps being taken by the Omaha district of the association to remedy a similar condition in Omaha. I. W. Jacoby was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate wholesale and retail selling of milk in the city of Lincoln. Mr. Jacoby is to name his own committee workers.

The next meeting of the association has been set for Friday evening, December 12, at the agricultural college.

The McBurney Point
Are Women Brave?
Death by Drink
Death by Fire

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Mr. Barnes, head of the United States Chamber of Commerce, tells President Hoover that he thinks congress should be most cautious in these "sensitive times." No extra session. The less of congress, the better for the nation, is a widespread conservative opinion.

On the other hand, every surgeon will tell Mr. Barnes that when there is great sensitiveness, there is often a need of a major operation.

If your McBurney point, low down on the right hand side of your abdomen, is sensitive, your appendix should come out.

In "these sensitive times," perhaps, this country needs some major operation. Who will attend to it, if not congress? It may be a poor thing, but it's all we have.

Gentlemen with big necks used to say women should not vote until they became as brave as men.

They vote now, and have always been much braver than men. Consider for instance Miss Winifred Spooner, English, 23 years old, flying from London to South Africa, attempting to make the trip in five days.

Her plane was forced down on the Mediterranean at midnight two miles from shore. Miss Spooner and her flying companion who was not a good swimmer were both injured. This did not keep the young English girl from swimming two miles to the shore through the darkness seeking help for her companion.

A well-known man, formerly head, by inheritance of a great industrial organization, owner of a famous racing stable, possessing many millions, was found dead outside of his door yesterday. Doctors attribute his death to "acute ethylism, or alcoholism."

A man with many millions who drinks violently, drinks usually because he is bored.

Money with no other interest except race horses and such toys is boredom.

Almost any man can succeed in spite of poverty.

Few men succeed in spite of wealth. Fathers that kill effort in their sons by making them rich, do them no favor.

In New Jersey, Emil Witke, past 50 years old, and a recluse, built a funeral pyre of wood, paper, pieces of furniture, in his room, poured kerosene over it, lay down upon it, lighted a match and was burned to death. The agony lasted a few minutes at most, smoke mercifully ending it. But the death fills us with horror.

It might arouse thought in some who believe that divine power sentences creatures that it has made to burn in more horrible agony, forever and ever, through billions of years, where "their worm dieth not." What the vilest man would not do to a dog that had bitten him, he thinks his God does, to millions of human beings.

Gen. Hugh L. Cooper, the American hydraulic engineer in charge of the Russian waterfall project, with its enormous dam, a mile long, believes that Russian ideas will change, gradually, and become less violently communistic.

They will, of course. Communism says to divide. Human being are selfish, and as they accumulate more property the idea of dividing interests them less and less.

Those that want to see Russia back up from the Karl Marx idea, toward the United States of America dollar idea, should pray that Russians may succeed financially. Nothing like wealth to make men conservative, and change their opinions.

For the first time since 1928, the football players of Notre Dame see odds quoted against them. Bookmakers bet 10-to-8 that Southern California will beat the "unbeatable Notre Dame-Rockne team."

The combination of energy and sunshine from California is expected to conquer the wonderful fighting Irish and middle west blend of Notre Dame.

Yet, strangely, the original inhabitants of California, Indians, overpowered by the climate, lived on grasshoppers and such things, lacking the energy to capture bigger game.

GATES IS HEAD OF EDUCATORS

Grand Island Man Is Elected President State Teachers.

No Definite Plan for Tax Distribution is Recommended.

OMAHA, Dec. 6—(AP)—C. Ray Gates, superintendent of schools at Grand Island, Friday was named president of the Nebraska State Teachers association. Mr. Gates has been head of the Grand Island schools for the past nine years.

G. F. Liebendorfer, Sidney superintendent, was elected vice president and O. L. Webb, superintendent at David City was re-elected treasurer. E. M. Hosman of Lincoln, was re-elected general secretary. This was the tenth consecutive term as secretary for Mr. Hosman, whose work in that post was highly praised by the teachers.

The election of officers marked the close of the annual meeting of the association's delegate assembly.

Mr. Gates, the new president, has lived in Nebraska for 40 years and has been in school work for 25 years. He is a graduate of Auburn high school, Peru state normal college, the University of Nebraska and has an M. A. degree from Columbia university. He succeeds H. B. Simon of Norfolk.

Discuss Tax Plans.

Following the unanimous adoption of the report of the legislative committee, which declared that "the tax plan to provide funds for equalizing the burden of school support is the problem of experts and the legislature," Superintendent W. A. Rosene of Callaway, urged that a definite tax plan be formulated. Men and women who have been fighting the school tax battle for years are just as capable of drafting a plan as most of the legislators, Mr. Rosene said.

"Unless the association devises a definite plan there is no telling what the legislature may start working on," said he.

On the suggestion of Archer L. Burnham, Beatrice superintendent, the slogan of "Equalization of Educational pportunity" was shunted aside and a new slogan of "Equalize the Tax for Public Instruction" was adopted.

Resolutions urging the appointment of a "competent, qualified tax commission to determine the educational and economic facts upon which to build a sane and just system of taxation" were adopted.

Another resolution declared that the University of Nebraska and the state teachers colleges "should take more systematic and scientific steps to identify and eliminate students unfitted and unsuitable to the teaching profession.

The athletic commission recommended "a shifting of emphasis from intensive athletic coaching of first teams in order to win contests to a broader training in athletics and physical education for a larger number of pupils."

Possible blacklisting of books and magazines tending "to tear down the character of school children in Nebraska" was discussed with the majority of the delegates favoring a censorship of publications.

SALLY PICKARD.

Amid the medieval settings of a feudal castle in the university coliseum Friday night Miss Sally Pickard of Omaha was presented to the more than 900 couples attending the twenty-second annual military ball as the new honorary colonel of the R. O. T. C. regiment.

Miss Pickard was elected early in the fall by popular vote. It was not until 10:30 o'clock Friday night when she stepped over the little drawbridge that linked the castle on the stage to the ballroom setting that the identity of the honorary colonel was known. Attired in a uniform of new design and color, featuring the scarlet and cream of Nebraska and carried out in military style, Miss Pickard, a member of Pi Beta Phi and president of the local chapter of Mortar Board, was formally introduced to the regiment during the grand march.

Cadet Colonel Winston Behn escorted Miss Pickard through the long line of arched sabers as she received the applause from a crowd which was said by Col. W. H. Oury to be the largest in Military ball history. George E. Lee and his Brunswick recording orchestra, furnished music for the dancing and played during the presentation and grand march.

The party started at 8:30 and closed at 12 o'clock. Those in attendance were in formal dress, officers of the regiment being in full uniform. Dim lighting was used under the gigantic canopy which enveloped the entire dance floor. Members of Pershing Rifles participating in the presentation were dressed in military costumes depicting every war that the United States has been engaged in since 1776.

Before the introduction of the honorary colonel several dances were dedicated to the various regimental, battalion and company sponsors. These sponsors were presented to the crowd and were given white overseas caps with the Nebraska insignia, emblematic of their connections with their particular units.

Command posts were erected in each of the four corners of the coliseum and presided over by battalion commanders who provided lounges and chairs for the dancers. Punch was served from each one of these posts and several of the many patrons and patronesses were introduced to those in attendance at the party from these posts.

Twenty-four Locks on Mississippi Proposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6— (AP) — Construction of twenty-four new locks and dams for a nine-foot channel on the upper Mississippi was recommended today in the final report of the survey by the army engineers.

The survey was authorized by congress in 1927. The cost of the new construction together with dredging and other necessary works was estimated at $124,000,000, with $1,750,000 required annually for operation, care of locks and dams and channel maintenance.

The army's board of engineers will review the survey.

OUTLOOK IS BAD FOR RAILROADS

Sargent Says Government Strangling Life From Carriers.

Shippers Board Finds Business Improving Central West.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Dec. 6—Violating precepts of the constitution regarding property rights, the government of this country is strangling the life from American railroads by unfair regulation and restraint, and at once destroying the one institution that has power to build future prosperity from the latent resources of the mid-western states, Fred Wesley Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern railway system told members of the Central Western Shippers' Advisory board at the banquet at the Clarke Friday night.

The government prevents the railroads by law from competing with the rates of the Panama canal, or from owning interest in the canal unless they destroy themselves by re-organizing the entire system of rates on waterway basis, he charged.

It rigidly restrains hours of service for the railroads' employees, and restricts rate charges, which cannot be made until after a 30-day notification of the change and approval by the interstate commerce commission, but no similar regulations are bestowed upon truck and bus concerns, he noted.

Outlook Encouraging.

Business in Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and Nebraska is on the upward trend, according to estimates and forecasts made by the 300 industrial leaders gathered here for the quarterly meeting of the shippers' board. Climaxing a two-day session in which shippers and railroad men met on a common ground to discuss their problems in a round table parley, the report of the commodity committee was completed late Friday.

It was revealed that a decrease of only three per cent in car loadings of all commodities is anticipated for the first three months of 1931 as compared with the same period for 1930, whereas at the last session held in Denver three months ago the estimated quarterly decrease for the period now ending was 8.16 per cent from a corresponding period in 1929.

Coal Traffic Less.

A significant factor obtained from analysis of the actual and estimated carloading figures is that of the 3 per cent anticipated decrease which the board forecasts, approximately 2 per cent represents reduction in the shipment of coal.

Repeatedly during the sessions here, railway executives pointed out the fact that the influx of natural gas and oil through pipelines is making an increasing drain on the railroad traffic and is apparently wrecking the coal producing industry.

W. J. Smith, district manager of the car service division of the American Railway association, showed the general improved condition of the Central Western states over the other sections of the United States by declaring that during the first ten months of the year, while the country as a whole was showing a decrease of 12.6 per cent in carloadings, the central western states showed only 6.8 per cent. And half of that figure, he added, is attributable to the curtailment of the coal industry.

VAN ALLEN TO GET NEW TRIAL

Man Accused Central City Bank Robbery Free on Bail.

CENTRAL CITY, Neb., Dec. 6—(AP)—District Judge Louis Lightner Friday sustained a motion for a new trial for Peter Van Allen, Platte Center, convicted here October 23 of robbing the Farmers' National bank of Central City.

The bank was held up September 13 last by a man who escaped with $1,338 after intimidating the bank employes and a customer by firing a bullet into the floor.

The robber escaped uninjured despite a volley of buckshot fired at him as he passed a side window in the bank.

Two days later Van Allen was arrested at his home. Neither the car used by the robber nor the money taken was ever recovered by the authorities. His parents testified at the trial that Van Allen was home sick the morning of the robbery.

In sustaining the defense motion for a new trial Judge Lightner based his decision on the lack of sufficient evidence.

Van Allen had been held in jail here because he failed to put up a $15,000 bond. The amount was reduced to $3,000 by Judge Lightner following his ruling on the motion. Bail was immediately put up by Van Allen's father, mother and attorneys and he was released.

VENUE CHANGES ARE DENIED TWO

Elmelund and Tomes To Be Tried in Saunders County.

WAHOO, Neb., Dec. 6—(AP)—Changes of venue asked by William C. Elmelund, Lincoln, and Joe B. Tomes, Valparaise, were denied Friday by District Judge H. D. Landis. They face charges of making false reports on the condition of the Nebraska State bank of Valparaiso of which they were formerly president and cashier, respectively.

Landis set the trial of W H Kirchman and Charles T. Podahisky, former officers of the closed Nebraska State bank of Wahoo, for December 15 before District Judge L S. Hastings at David City on a change of venue. Both are charged with embezzlement and Kirchman also faces a retrial January 26 at Seward. A jury recently was unable to agree on this case, which involves charges of alleged violations of the banking law.

Retrial of J M Oshlund former president of the closed Citizens State bank of Wahoo, was set by Judge Landis for February 2 at Seward A jury recently was unable to decide whether Oshlund was guilty of making false entries as charged.

Business in Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and Nebraska is on the upward trend, according to estimates and forecasts made by the 300 industrial leaders gathered here for the quarterly meeting of the shippers' board. Climaxing a two-day session in which shippers and railroad men met on a common ground to discuss their problems in a round table parley, the report of the commodity committee was completed late Friday.

It was revealed that a decrease of only three per cent in car loadings of all commodities is anticipated for the first three months of 1931 as compared with the same period for 1930, whereas at the last session held in Denver three months ago the estimated quarterly decrease for the period now ending was 8.16 per cent from a corresponding period in 1929.

Coal Traffic Less.

A significant factor obtained from analysis of the actual and estimated carloading figures is that of the 3 per cent anticipated decrease which the board forecasts, approximately 2 per cent represents reduction in the shipment of coal.

Repeatedly during the sessions here, railway executives pointed out the fact that the influx of natural gas and oil through pipelines is making an increasing drain on the railroad traffic and is apparently wrecking the coal producing industry.

W. J. Smith, district manager of the car service division of the American Railway association, showed the general improved condition of the Central Western states over the other sections of the United States by declaring that during the first ten months of the year, while the country as a whole was showing a decrease of 12.6 per cent in carloadings, the central western states showed only 6.8 per cent. And half of that figure, he added, is attributable to the curtailment of the coal industry.

VAN ALLEN TO GET NEW TRIAL

Man Accused Central City Bank Robbery Free on Bail.

CENTRAL CITY, Neb., Dec. 6—(AP)—District Judge Louis Lightner Friday sustained a motion for a new trial for Peter Van Allen, Platte Center, convicted here October 23 of robbing the Farmers' National bank of Central City.

The bank was held up September 13 last by a man who escaped with $1,338 after intimidating the bank employes and a customer by firing a bullet into the floor.

The robber escaped uninjured despite a volley of buckshot fired at him as he passed a side window in the bank.

Two days later Van Allen was arrested at his home. Neither the car used by the robber nor the money taken was ever recovered by the authorities. His parents testified at the trial that Van Allen was home sick the morning of the robbery.

In sustaining the defense motion for a new trial Judge Lightner based his decision on the lack of sufficient evidence.

Van Allen had been held in jail here because he failed to put up a $15,000 bond. The amount was reduced to $3,000 by Judge Lightner following his ruling on the motion. Bail was immediately put up by Van Allen's father, mother and attorneys and he was released.

VENUE CHANGES ARE DENIED TWO

Elmelund and Tomes To Be Tried in Saunders County.

WAHOO, Neb., Dec. 6—(AP)—Changes of venue asked by William C. Elmelund, Lincoln, and Joe B. Tomes, Valparaise, were denied Friday by District Judge H. D. Landis. They face charges of making false reports on the condition of the Nebraska State bank of Valparaiso of which they were formerly president and cashier, respectively.

Landis set the trial of W. H. Kirchman and Charles T. Podahisky, former officers of the closed Nebraska State bank of Wahoo, for December 15 before District Judge L. S. Hastings at David City on a change of venue. Both are charged with embezzlement and Kirchman also faces a retrial January 26 at Seward. A jury recently was unable to agree on this case, which involves charges of alleged violations of the banking law.

Retrial of J. M. Oshlund, former president of the closed Citizens State bank of Wahoo, was set by Judge Landis for February 2 at Seward. A jury recently was unable to decide whether Oshlund was guilty of making false entries as charged.

KANSAS BACK IN THE FOLD.

That was a happy ending which was written to the differences which developed between Kansas university and the remaining five members of the Big Six conference.

The undergraduate bodies of the institutions and the alumni generally will rejoice that the Jayhawker authorities have seen fit to comply with the conditions laid down by the faculty representatives. Particularly in the cases of Missouri and Nebraska, tradition had been built around the football games between the Huskers, the Tigers and the Kansas squad. In point of years the Kansas-Nebraska joust reaches back longer than any other engagement on the Cornhusker date book.

As a full measure of the deep-seated rivalry between the two schools, it will be recalled that the Kansas game last month found the Cornhuskers fully geared to play the best brand of football it was capable of. At that time Nebraska attained the peak of its form and the game which the Huskers played against the Jayhawkers was superior to any of the season. Probably the traditions of the struggle had as much to do to putting the squad in the proper mental attitude as anything. It would have been a distinct loss not only to Kansas but to the other members of the conference if the alumni attitude at Lawrence had been permitted to take the Jayhawkers out of the conference.

The outcome will be helpful not only in retaining Kansas in the conference but also in clearing the atmosphere and in setting a sharply defined precedent which will prevent a repetition of the Bausch incident. For months before the faculty representatives took action, the facts in the case were well known. It was generally recognized the Kansas star was receiving a salary for services, which it was expected, he would perform after leaving college. There is little difference between that arrangement and the methods which prevailed when "slush funds" were more or less common among all American colleges. The conference took a wise and sane attitude upon it.

There is no disposition to prevent the star athlete from attending a university when his financial circumstances make it necessary for him to earn his own way. The only requirement which the conference lays down is that the football player shall actually perform the services while he is in school in the same fashion he would be expected to work in the event that he was not engaged in athletics. Hundreds of ambitious young chaps scattered over the United States, figuring prominently in athletics, do this, and they are among the finest men in college.

Kansas has met the demands of the conference and the incident may be considered closed. A conference committee has been named to conduct an investigation of the circumstances surrounding other members of the Jayhawker squad and the assurance has been given that if the facts coincide with those uncovered in the Bausch case, the Jayhawkers will immediately disqualify the athlete or athletes. The permanence of football, which is a great sport, and which has added immeasurably to college life, requires that it shall be kept free from commercialism.

The scheduling of Kansas completes a notable schedule for the Cornhuskers.

The 1931 Cornhusker campaign will call for two games with members of the Big Ten conference—Northwestern and Iowa—a game with Pitt, one of the recognized leaders of eastern football, and five games with members of the Big Six conference. In completing negotiations with Northwestern, co-holder with Michigan of the 1930 Big Ten laurels, Director Herb Gish has landed an especially attractive feature. Northwestern has been out in front in western football in recent years and it is not unlikely that the arrangement entered in for 1931 may be extended to bring the Wildcats to Lincoln.

It is an exacting, difficult campaign which Coach Bible and his squad must face in 1931 but it should prove extremely satisfactory to the football enthusiasts because it will pit Nebraska against the outstanding teams of the country in practically every engagement.

WHILE GETTING, GET A PLENTY.

Whether the city of Lincoln shall carry out the plan originally recommended by its employed experts to go to the Platte river for a permanent water supply, or accept the substitute offer of a Kansas City development concern to produce sufficient water within twelve miles of this city, is a matter which those whom the people have commissioned to act in their behalf must decide.

In doing this, their duty to the community demands that no substitute project be adopted until a complete and convincing demonstration has been given that abundant water of good quality is obtainable nearer than the Platte, and that the source of supply would not be subject to depletion in drouth periods.

There is one feature of the proposition now pending which, though fair enough on its face, would seem on closer inspection to fail in providing an effective guarantee that the city would never be left short of water. This is the clause which specifies that in case of the supply at any time within five years falling below the amount of 12,000,000 gallons per day the contracting company shall bring the gallonage back up to the required figure within six months thereafter, or refund to the city all the money therefore paid it.

That does not give the people of Lincoln any assurance that they will have ample water for their needs at all times. Neither does it impose any real penalty on the company in the event of failure to carry out its promise.

If a shortage should occur it would come during the hot part of summer when the water was most needed, just as it did this year. Thereafter, the company would have six months, or until the middle of the following winter, to restore the 12,000,000 daily gallonage contracted for. If it did this it would not be subject to any forfeiture. Of course, when the hot season was over and fall rains and winter snows had again filled the ground with moisture, and when consumptive demand had fallen off a great deal so that the underground supply would not be drawn upon so heavily day by day, it would be easy to obtain a much larger amount of water.

The company is taking very little risk, indeed, in offering a midwinter guarantee of plenty of water; but what Lincoln wants is a sufficient supply in the summer, when the people most need it. So far as winter demands go, they might be able to get along for quite a while yet on what the present wells and pumping plants provide.

This is only one of many phases of the municipal undertaking which need to be carefully scanned in connection with any proposal that would divert the city from its first contemplated plan of establishing the new water supply base in the Platte river area.

The first and most essential thing is to be sure of getting an abundance of water. Comparative cost is also to be weighed, but that is a secondary consideration.

EXPENSIVE CRIME.

Perhaps no recent conference has heard so great a quantity of thought-provoking material as the White House gathering on child welfare, at Washington. The strain of idealism that dominated the conference in its hope for constructive efforts at building a finer childhood and thus a finer manhood and womanhood was an encouraging note in an age of materialism.

But it was not a futile idealism. It was an idealism grounded in the hope of real achievement with practical measures constantly before the gathering.

The relation of crime to expenditures in behalf of childhood was one of the many significant features of the conference. During the discussions of crime, the opinion was advanced that every criminal in the United States costs as much as the expenditures for welfare of 160 normal boys.

This conclusion was reached from estimates that the annual crime bill is in excess of $16,000,000,000, the annual child welfare cost at $5,000,000,000, the number of criminals at less than 100,000 and that child welfare affects 50,000,000 youths.

The success in reducing juvenile delinquency in various cities through proper park facilities, and efforts to develop better homes have been significant of the possibilities along those lines. They have pointed to the importance of an early expenditure of funds as crime prevention.

Society has delayed too long in adopting a forward and aggressive program to supplement its formal educational efforts. Thoughtful families budget their expenditures to meet important needs and to avoid later disasters. Society blindly fails to make necessary initial provisions and then pays an excessive price for ruined and blighted lives later. The hope of an improved civilization lies constantly in the oncoming tide of youth, and in its proper approach in early childhood.

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

(Copyright 1930. New York Tribune.)

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

QUESTION.

It would seem to me that a minister who preaches evangelical sermons in a forceful manner, although requiring little study in their preparation, is more popular as a preacher and draws better than one who is a good student of philosophy and preaches sermons containing much food for thought. If this surmise is correct will you explain the reasons?

ANSWER.

You are entirely wrong in the view that what you call "evangelical sermons" require "little study in their preparation." As a matter of fact, truly evangelical sermons need more careful thinking and logical arrangement than any other type of pulpit utterance. It is comparatively easy to discourse on the latest "best seller," to luxuriate in crude literary excursions, or to excoriate the Mayor and Aldermen of a given city.

But when the preacher attempts to explain the ways of God toward men and to interpret the mysterious depths of complex human nature, he is insufficient for his task apart from divine aid. The lasting triumphs of the pulpit are not won by haphazard glibness. They demand profound meditation on fundamental verities steeped in the preacher's personal experience.

Of course the truths of faith must be translated into the idiom of our day, Jesus Himself being our example in this respect. But they are not to be deprived of the extensive resources of culture and learning. The genuinely "popular preacher," such as Beecher or Phillips Brooks, always has his "Old Guard" behind the ridge, to send in at the climax of his plea. Make no mistake about crowds. Unless they are well served, the ability to draw them is a second rate performance, often accompanied by considerable mischief. Not how many attend a church, but what they get when there constitutes the real test of effective preaching.

QUESTION.
Newark, N. J.

Will you please explain the philosophy of the Christian doctrine of salvation?

ANSWER.

Some theologians trace it to God's will, which is to say that Jesus was manifested as the Christ or Anointed One, to save men from their sins, solely because God chose to thus manifest Him. Every human effort, such as repentance, confession, faith, is likewise inspired and directed by God alone. Deliverance from moral danger and the experience of Divine favor are the rewards of man's strict conformity with God's plan.

However, there is another and to my thinking a better explanation of these realities of Christian consciousness. Why not regard them as harmonizing with the total life process of humanity, and not as God's arbitrary acts? It is generally recognized that man is the crown of an ageless cosmic movement, a growing and as yet an incomplete creature, with infinite moral and spiritual capacities. The existence of these capacities points to the certainty that provision has been made for their fuller realization.

He is able to distinguish between right and wrong; to condemn himself for doing wrong, to repent of the wrong done, to subordinate his entire being to its one great and satisfactory end, which is to know and obey God and enjoy Him forever. Surely we cannot believe that man would be left suspended with these divine elements in his nature and no opportunity for their fruition. Jesus is the solution of the problem. In Him God reaches down to man and man reaches up to God. He expresses the heart of Deity, and also by His life and teaching. His death and mediatorial sovereignty, he fulfills in Himself all the terms of Divine sonship, and enables us to do the same.

QUESTION.
Little Rock, Ark.

How do you account for the growth of symbolism in modern religion?

ANSWER.

Symbolism has never been separated from religion. The traditional churches have developed and maintained it during all the centuries of their history. It has revived in Protestant churches; however, partly because of the restlessness and discontent of their members with conflicting doctrinal forms. Again, there will always be differences of temperament in believers, and those who warmly appreciate the beautiful as an essential element of religion will revert to it if that element has been unduly repressed. Hence the recent stately shrines and churches to be seen in many places.

But their cause goes still deeper. You have probably observed the subtle movements toward the recovery of the transcendent and the mystical. If not, study Christian Science. Gothic architecture and occultism's various manifestations. Here the pretensions of physical knowledge to explain life's far-reaching mysteries has reacted.

Science itself now confesses its failure and drifts toward the frontiers of the mysterious. It sees that what it held as final realities are no more than the symbols of a hidden force and of vast hinterlands of knowledge as yet unexplored. So it is not surprising that millions of souls caught in a theological maelstrom should return to rites and ceremonies for help. What is more, when rightly understood, they help amazingly, a fact long since appreciated by our Roman Catholic brethren.

MUST PAY FOR STOLEN CATTLE

Omaha Buyer Loses Through Testimony Prison Inmates.

OMAHA, Dec. 6—(AP)—Testimony of two convicts was instrumental here yesterday in persuading a jury in District court to bring in a verdict reimbursing Louis Richtmeyer, Cherry county rancher, to the extent of $3,275 for his loss in a cattle theft.

The verdict was against the Mutual Livestock Commission company of Omaha, an innocent party, which purchased the cattle from the pair.

The convicts, who were brought here under guard from the penitentiary at Lincoln, were Clarence Gross, former employe at the Richtmeyer ranch, and his stepfather, Jake Rausch, a former Thomas county rancher. They are serving a five year term for the theft.

Gross testified that he had driven twenty head of Hereford cattle off Richtmeyer's ranch and took them to Rausch's place. Richtmeyer became suspicious of the pair and had Gross arrested.

The Omaha company protested that it had bought the cattle in good faith.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Cripple

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Success is seldom won by luck:
'Tis chiefly the reward of pluck.
—Old Mother Nature.

The young Muskrat who had twisted off a foot and left it in a cruel steel trap was at first so happy in being free that he didn't give much thought to that lost foot. He followed his father, Jerry Muskrat, straight home to the big house in the Smiling Pool, which he entered by diving and swimming through the long underwater hall. Oh how good it was to come up inside where he was safe from all enemies. On a comfortable bed of dry grass he first gave real attention to his injured leg. It ached, did that stump of a leg. Yes, indeed, it ached. But the ache was not so great as it had been when the leg was held fast in that dreadful trap. He gently licked it to get it clean. Presently he went to sleep. You see he had had no rest or sleep for so long that he was quite used up.

Oh how good it was when at last he awoke to find that he was safely at home in that big house in the Smiling Pool. At first he could not remember what was wrong. Then the ache in that stump of a left front leg brought it all back. For two days he did not even try to go outside. Food was brought in. He didn't need much for he had quite lost his appetite. All the time Old Mother Nature was at work healing that stump of a leg. He was a healthy young Muskrat and it was surprising how rapidly the healing went on.

When at last the young Muskrat did venture out he did not realize at first how crippled he was. He could swim without difficulty, for there was nothing the matter with his strong hind feet with their partly webbed toes and there was nothing the matter with his tail wherewith to scull. It was when he came to the first landing and started to climb out that he realized something of what life was to be for him thereafter. Having but one forefoot and that stump which was not yet fully healed, he could not get out on that little landing. He had to hunt another that was lower.

Jerry Muskrat saw him. "Never mind," said he "Think how much worse it would have been to have lost your life."

The young Muskrat was almost ready to doubt this as he lost his balance and fell forward while climbing up on a log, but when he remembered the boy with the stick lifted to kill him he decided that after all it was better, much better, to be alive. He soon discovered that he was badly handicapped if he tried to fight with any of his companions and so he took pains not to quarrel with them. He discovered that he could not run, so he seldom went more than a jump from the water. He found that he could not dig as he had dug once upon a time so he no longer tried to dig up roots for food, but hunted more for other food.

Although, however, he got along surprisingly well for one so crippled. Fortunately he was seen by Farmer Brown's boy. After that there was always plenty to eat where he could easily get it. So he grew strong and big and more and more clever in getting about on three legs. But always he remembered the dreadful lesson of the trap and never once did he forget to look carefully before putting a foot down anywhere. Even when there was no reason to think that there might be traps about he was just so careful.

Jerry Muskrat used to notice this and grin, but he took care that the young Muskrat shouldn't see him do it. "He'll live to be old and wise," said Jerry to Mrs. Jerry. "It was a dreadful lesson, but it has made a new Muskrat of him. Yes, sir, it has so. Notice how ready he is to listen to advice now. He was headstrong and heedless, but now he is cautious and watchful and suspicious. Never again will he be caught in a trap, nor is he likely to be caught by any of our enemies. He may be crippled so far as that leg is concerned, but there is nothing crippled about his wits."

It was so. In time that crippled young Muskrat proved to be the smartest of all the young Muskrats and was quite capable of taking care of himself. But he had paid a dreadful price. Don't you think so?

Just Folks

THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

Three hundred dollars lost! The shrewd
Deride my hot, impulsive mood.
I loaned it to a felon. One
The law had stamped a brand upon,
Who, feigning he was faint of breath,
Opened a window, dove to death.
Three hundred dollars with him went.
Which I in pleasure might have spent.

The wise men laugh and say I knew
His ugly record through and through:
That there are good men to befriend
And honest men to whom to lend;
But this I knew who heard his plea:
None needed friendship more than he
I was the last of all on earth

To think he still could prove his worth.

Desperate he was to start again
And show himself a man to men.
I heard his story, and I gave
The money his one hope to save.
Then said—and now I wonder why—
"Henceforth 'twere better you should die
Then to betray with faithlessness
The last true friend whom you possess."

"I will remember you," he said—
And two days later he was dead.
Wise men repeat the story o'er,
Thinking the money I deplore,
But I've long ceased to dwell upon
Those cheap three hundred dollars gone,
While still I wonder—was he led
To death by those few word I said?

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

DISEASE MAY RESULT IF UNBALANCED MEALS LACKING VITAMINS ARE HABITUALLY SERVED.

The square meal—the balanced meal of the vitamins—the meal not out of cans, but which contained all the necessary vitamins in the form of the familiar foods—the meal we sat down to yesterday—had in the upper left-hand corner of the square meal table vitamins A and D in butter and cream. In the upper right-hand corner vitamin B in the form of milk. In the lower left-hand corned vitamin C in the form of green vegetables and fruits. In the lower right-hand corner of the table, vitamin PP or B2, in the form of lean meat and cheese.

Dr Clendening

You see it is a really square meal. You get vitamins in any balanced meal.

What happens if you lose the balance?

Suppose you do not eat the upper left and right-hand corners of the square meal! This is more disastrous for children than for grown-ups.

Lack of vitamin A brings on an inflammation of the eyes, called Xerophthalmia. It occurs almost exclusively in infants.

Lack of vitamin D causes rickets. This is a disease causing softening of the bones in children.

Lack of vitamin B causes many disturbances. In the diet of our climate and civilization it is seldom absent from the diet of adults because it is present in yeast. It is also present in the shell of cereals. If not eaten regularly by adults a paralysis of the nerves, called beriberi, results. Lack of the proper amount of vitamin B in infants' diet results in retarded growth.

The little folk also suffer with the grown-ups when it comes to the lower left-hand corner of the square meal table. This is where vitamin C, present in fruits and milk and vegetables, is located. It causes scurvey. Both children and adults need fresh fruit, milk and vegetables.

Lack of the vitamins found in lean meat, cheese and eggs is responsible for a disease called pellagra. It occurs only in adults. Many cases were recognized some years ago in southern United States and also southern Europe—Italy, Greece and Bulgaria. It is characterized by an eruption on the skin, intestinal disturbances and sore mouth and tongue. It may progress to a fatal termination.

Editors note: Four pamphlets by Doctor Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are "Infant Feeding," "Reducing and Gaining," "Instructions on the Treatment of Diabetes" and "Hygiene of Women."

LIFE INSURANCE MEN HOLD MEET

First Annual Convention Being Held at Grand Island.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Dec. 6—(AP)—Approximately 150 insurance men, from all sections of Nebraska, were in session here today at the first annual conference of the Nebraska Life Underwriters.

The morning session was called to order by President W. H. Logan and following a brief address of welcome by Mayor O. A. Abbott, jr., the conference got down to business.

Speakers on the morning program included W. W. Winne, Denver, Colo., insurance man, and past vice president of the National Association of Life Underwriters. The address of Lloyd Dort, state commissioner of insurance, was read to the insurance men, as the state official was unable to attend.

Mr. Winne was scheduled to again speak this afternoon and A. H. Kollenberg of Detroit, Mich., was also on hand to address the conference.

$60,000,000 RELIEF BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—Inter-party co-operation on emergency relief legislation today, at least seemed a strictly congressional affair, with the white house left out.

Party leaders in the senate showed what co-operation meant to them by getting together on increasing from $25,000,000 to $60,000,000 the president's recommendation for relief to farmers of the drouth states.

This, the first measure of the emergency program, goes before the senate next Monday, with the unanimous approval of the agricultural committee given to the larger figure. Senator McNary, chairman of the group and assistant republican leader, placed his name on the measure. Democratic Leader Robinson warned there would be a floor fight unless the $60,000,000 prevailed. Immediate consideration and passage within the week will be sought.

Russ Plotters to Know Fate Soon

MOSCOW, Dec. 6—(AP)—The soviet court extraordinary which has been sitting in trial of eight soviet engineers charged with conspiracy to overthrow the Moscow government adjourned at noon today to consider their sentences, which will be pronounced about 6 p. m., tomorrow (11 a. m., E. S. T.)

There has been no question of guilt involved in the trial, which has been in progress nearly two weeks. The eight defendants admitted the conspiracy in all its detail. Despite this the government constructed a thorough case against them, broadcasting their guilt to the Russian world by radio and motion picture.

Adjournment was taken after the last two of the defendants, Sergei Kuprianov and Xenephon Sitnin, had made pleas of mercy to the court.

Miss Abbott Says Rural Children Are Neglected

U. S. Official Laments Lack of Educational and Scientific Health Activities in Country.

BOSTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—Neglect of the rural child today was pronounced "a general rule in practically every field of child welfare" by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau.

Speaking before the women's division of the American Farm Bureau federation, Miss Abbott said the rural setting, with its lack of crowding, was an advantage to children, but lack of educational and scientific health facilities more than counterbalanced this.

Commenting on lack of Juvenile court procedure and probation system advantages for delinquent children in rural districts, Miss Abbott pronounced state assumption of new duties in social work "a move in the right direction." She urged also the necessity of "county responsibility" in correlation with state efforts in both social welfare and the public health work.

"The federal government is responsible for the one shining exception in the universal neglect of the rural child and its mother." said Miss Abbott. "For seven years the Sheppard-Towner act was promoting maternity and infancy welfare."

METROPOLITAN TENOR HURT.

SPLASH! She Swims to Conquer

By Eleanore Burnett. Copyright 1930, by Central Press Association

Chapter 45.

Kitty reported at the office the next morning, a pale and washed out little ghost of herself. She had again made up her mind to leave.

Therefore, she would show as little as possible why she was leaving; this meant, in particular, no evidence whatever to Edith that she knew any more of the "mystery girl" of the office than she had before.

She greeted them all as if she had but been away on a vacation and waited patiently to be called to Mr. Goss' office.

The call came almost immediately.

"Just got back—find you back!" he greeted her. "Well, well?"

"Did you see to it that my friendly taxi driver was paid?" she asked.

"Hundred dollars. Darn your driver! What happened?" Goss barked at her.

She told him in detail, making it as short as she could. At her account of her swim for safety, his eyes flashed. When she retailed how she had at last seen three faces, he grinned and made rapid notes of her description. But when she told him of the rescue and the anonymous letters, he rose and came toward her rapidly...."I want those letters!" he barked. "Where are they?"

"I suppose the men still have them....why, they are not important, are they?"

"Get them!" he cried. "I must have them! And you mustn't say they are for me—say you want them for souvenirs. Never mind why I want them Listen! Someone got his fingers burned in the market! You've done more with your impossible pluck than all the men, all that no-good partner of mine, all the detectives in New York have done! Tell Ayers I said to give you a thousand dollars in cash and a thousand more a year from now on and ...."

"No!" answered Kitty. "I'm leaving you, Mr. Goss."

"Don't be silly!" he responded. "You can't leave. Your job isn't done! Only you can recognize those men. What's the matter—not enough? Make it two thousand!"

"Oh, you are—you are impossible!" cried Kitty. "I didn't do this for money! I did it for loyalty and because—because—"

"Because you are in love with that fool partner of mine!"

Mr. Goss smiled—at least, Kitty was under the impression that he meant the dwarfish grimace for a smile.

"I am not in love, as you put it, with Mr. Platt. He is not a fool Neither is he in love with me!" stated Kitty. "And I am going to leave. But I will not sever my connection here as long as you think my job is not finished. Neither will I accept a raise in salary nor a thousand dollars for what I have done."

"What!" Goss snarled. "You'll obey orders!"

"No," answered Kitty. "I'll stay on my terms, or I'll walk out now and not come back. I did not do this for money and I will not accept money for it. If that is understood, I will remain while I am necessary If you will not have it so, then I will leave now. But under no circumstances will I obey you and accept money which I have not earned."

For a moment Kitty thought the dwarf would strike her. His eyes gleamed feverishly, he flushed a dull red and his hands clenched.

Then he relaxed and grimaced again.

"The office is full of fools!" he snapped. "Get out and send me Bridges. And come back here tomorrow morning—with some sense in your pretty head! Go!"

Kitty went.

Giving only passing wonder that she did not see Atlee, Kitty departed, understanding that she had a holiday if nothing else. Here Goss was supreme, since she could not take his dictation if he would give her none.

She spent the afternoon in the park, thinking, wondering, and sometimes praying a little. That evening was to be a hard one; she had to slay with words, not deeds.

Gordon called for her promptly at six. She was hardly in the car before he had an arm around her; at the first empty corner he kissed her.

She made no resistance. Now was not the time. Neither did she make any response.

"What's the matter?" he asked, solicitously. "You not glad to see me?"

She did not answer for a moment. Then:

"Where are we going?"

"Where do you want to go?" he asked. "The world is yours! I give it to you!"

"I don't want the world; I want to go some place where we can talk, I have something to say."

He looked at her minutely. His fine face clouded and Kitty felt a clutch at her heart. He looked so sincere, so honest, so good.....and she knew him to be a liar He wanted to get rid of her!

He said no more, evidently sensing that something was the matter. He drove to one of the little inns on Long Island to which they had often been, where a semi-private dining room afforded an opportunity for conversation.

He ordered supper, but Kitty raised her hand.

"Please, no," she begged. "I will not eat anything."

As the waiter left the room, he turned to her, his arms out.

"My dearest, what is the matter? You are so strange, so cold...."

She smiled faintly.

"I am not your dearest!" she spoke with neither passion nor grief in her voice. "I agreed to meet you tonight, Gordon, for one last interview, because I didn't know how to get out of it. Also because it didn't seem courageous, not to face you. I'd rather be shot than say it. But it's not my fault!"

Her shoulders lifted proudly.

"I learned many things this week If you will cast your mind back to last Tuesday evening, you will know what I learned."

"Tuesday — Tuesday?" he wondered. "Why, that's the day I left town...."

"Did you?" she allowed a little mockery to come into her voice. "I might trick you into lying to me—again. I might cross examine you as to where you went and what time you left. But I will not demean either of us by so doing. I merely say to you that what you said and did that evening, which affects me, I know. And because I know, Gordon, I—Oh, how could you lie so to me!"

For the first time her voice broke

He looked at her as looks a man who sees what is not believable, who hears something which is not to be heard.

"I—lie to you?" he stammered. "I never lied to you!"

"Gordon!"

"You know what happened Tuesday that affects you? Nothing happened Tuesday that affects you! Not a single thing...."

She raised her hand.

"Don't lie any more. It hurts. I know. You see, I heard for myself. I saw for myself. And—and—you won't have any difficulty in getting rid of me! Oh, I am not crying for you, man; I cry for myself! I hate myself that I can't control my eyes, but you cut me to the very heart! Do you understand? I saw you—I saw you! I heard you—I heard you say it! Now leave me—please. I'll go home in a taxi. I never—never want to see you again!"

Gordon's brows knit. He waited a full minute before he answered Then: "Do you remember saying to me that whatever I did would always be all right with you? That you would never distrust me again?" he asked gently.

Kitty noded. "I remember. But that meant anything you did which didn't affect your—your—shall I say regard for me? I tell you I heard you! I saw you with my own eyes! And I am through, through, through!"

Kitty looked him in the eye, saw his blaze and die to a cold grey saw his hands clench, then relax He bowed

"Even a murderer may be heard in his own defense!" he stated gently. "But so be it. Good bye—and God bless you."

When the waiter came half an hour later he found a woman with her head on her arms weeping as if her heart were broken.

KANSAS BACK IN THE FOLD.

That was a happy ending which was written to the differences which developed between Kansas university and the remaining five members of the Big Six conference.

The undergraduate bodies of the institutions and the alumni generally will rejoice that the Jayhawker authorities have seen fit to comply with the conditions laid down by the faculty representatives. Particularly in the cases of Missouri and Nebraska, tradition had been built around the football games between the Huskers, the Tigers and the Kansas squad. In point of years the Kansas-Nebraska joust reaches back longer than any other engagement on the Cornhusker date book.

As a full measure of the deep-seated rivalry between the two schools, it will be recalled that the Kansas game last month found the Cornhuskers fully geared to play the best brand of football it was capable of. At that time Nebraska attained the peak of its form and the game which the Huskers played against the Jayhawkers was superior to any of the season. Probably the traditions of the struggle had as much to do to putting the squad in the proper mental attitude as anything. It would have been a distinct loss not only to Kansas but to the other members of the conference if the alumni attitude at Lawrence had been permitted to take the Jayhawkers out of the conference.

The outcome will be helpful not only in retaining Kansas in the conference but also in clearing the atmosphere and in setting a sharply defined precedent which will prevent a repetition of the Bausch incident. For months before the faculty representatives took action, the facts in the case were well known. It was generally recognized the Kansas star was receiving a salary for services, which it was expected, he would perform after leaving college. There is little difference between that arrangement and the methods which prevailed when "slush funds" were more or less common among all American colleges. The conference took a wise and sane attitude upon it.

There is no disposition to prevent the star athlete from attending a university when his financial circumstances make it necessary for him to earn his own way. The only requirement which the conference lays down is that the football player shall actually perform the services while he is in school in the same fashion he would be expected to work in the event that he was not engaged in athletics. Hundreds of ambitious young chaps scattered over the United States, figuring prominently in athletics, do this, and they are among the finest men in college.

Kansas has met the demands of the conference and the incident may be considered closed. A conference committee has been named to conduct an investigation of the circumstances surrounding other members of the Jayhawker squad and the assurance has been given that if the facts coincide with those uncovered in the Bausch case, the Jayhawkers will immediately disqualify the athlete or athletes. The permanence of football, which is a great sport, and which has added immeasurably to college life, requires that it shall be kept free from commercialism.

The scheduling of Kansas completes a notable schedule for the Cornhuskers.

The 1931 Cornhusker campaign will call for two games with members of the Big Ten conference—Northwestern and Iowa—a game with Pitt, one of the recognized leaders of eastern football, and five games with members of the Big Six conference. In completing negotiations with Northwestern, co-holder with Michigan of the 1930 Big Ten laurels, Director Herb Gish has landed an especially attractive feature. Northwestern has been out in front in western football in recent years and it is not unlikely that the arrangement entered in for 1931 may be extended to bring the Wildcats to Lincoln.

It is an exacting, difficult campaign which Coach Bible and his squad must face in 1931 but it should prove extremely satisfactory to the football enthusiasts because it will pit Nebraska against the outstanding teams of the country in practically every engagement.

WHILE GETTING, GET A PLENTY.

Whether the city of Lincoln shall carry out the plan originally recommended by its employed experts to go to the Platte river for a permanent water supply, or accept the substitute offer of a Kansas City development concern to produce sufficient water within twelve miles of this city, is a matter which those whom the people have commissioned to act in their behalf must decide.

In doing this, their duty to the community demands that no substitute project be adopted until a complete and convincing demonstration has been given that abundant water of good quality is obtainable nearer than the Platte, and that the source of supply would not be subject to depletion in drouth periods.

There is one feature of the proposition now pending which, though fair enough on its face, would seem on closer inspection to fail in providing an effective guarantee that the city would never be left short of water. This is the clause which specifies that in case of the supply at any time within five years falling below the amount of 12,000,000 gallons per day the contracting company shall bring the gallonage back up to the required figure within six months thereafter, or refund to the city all the money therefore paid it.

That does not give the people of Lincoln any assurance that they will have ample water for their needs at all times. Neither does it impose any real penalty on the company in the event of failure to carry out its promise.

If a shortage should occur it would come during the hot part of summer when the water was most needed, just as it did this year. Thereafter, the company would have six months, or until the middle of the following winter, to restore the 12,000,000 daily gallonage contracted for. If it did this it would not be subject to any forfeiture. Of course, when the hot season was over and fall rains and winter snows had again filled the ground with moisture, and when consumptive demand had fallen off a great deal so that the underground supply would not be drawn upon so heavily day by day, it would be easy to obtain a much larger amount of water.

The company is taking very little risk, indeed, in offering a midwinter guarantee of plenty of water; but what Lincoln wants is a sufficient supply in the summer, when the people most need it. So far as winter demands go, they might be able to get along for quite a while yet on what the present wells and pumping plants provide.

This is only one of many phases of the municipal undertaking which need to be carefully scanned in connection with any proposal that would divert the city from its first contemplated plan of establishing the new water supply base in the Platte river area.

The first and most essential thing is to be sure of getting an abundance of water. Comparative cost is also to be weighed, but that is a secondary consideration.

EXPENSIVE CRIME.

Perhaps no recent conference has heard so great a quantity of thought-provoking material as the White House gathering on child welfare, at Washington. The strain of idealism that dominated the conference in its hope for constructive efforts at building a finer childhood and thus a finer manhood and womanhood was an encouraging note in an age of materialism.

But it was not a futile idealism. It was an idealism grounded in the hope of real achievement with practical measures constantly before the gathering.

The relation of crime to expenditures in behalf of childhood was one of the many significant features of the conference. During the discussions of crime, the opinion was advanced that every criminal in the United States costs as much as the expenditures for welfare of 160 normal boys.

This conclusion was reached from estimates that the annual crime bill is in excess of $16,000,000,000, the annual child welfare cost at $5,000,000,000, the number of criminals at less than 100,000 and that child welfare affects 50,000,000 youths.

The success in reducing juvenile delinquency in various cities through proper park facilities, and efforts to develop better homes have been significant of the possibilities along those lines. They have pointed to the importance of an early expenditure of funds as crime prevention.

Society has delayed too long in adopting a forward and aggressive program to supplement its formal educational efforts. Thoughtful families budget their expenditures to meet important needs and to avoid later disasters. Society blindly fails to make necessary initial provisions and then pays an excessive price for ruined and blighted lives later. The hope of an improved civilization lies constantly in the oncoming tide of youth, and in its proper approach in early childhood.

LIFE INSURANCE MEN HOLD MEET

First Annual Convention Being Held at Grand Island.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Dec. 6—(AP)—Approximately 150 insurance men, from all sections of Nebraska, were in session here today at the first annual conference of the Nebraska Life Underwriters.

The morning session was called to order by President W. H. Looan and following a brief address of welcome by Mayor O. A. Abbott, jr., the conference got down to business.

Speakers on the morning program included W. W. Winne, Denver, Colo., insurance man, and past vice president of the National Association of Life Underwriters. The address of Lloyd Dort, state commissioner of insurance, was read to the insurance men, as the state official was unable to attend.

Mr. Winne was scheduled to again speak this afternoon and A. H. Kollenberg of Detroit, Mich., was also on hand to address the conference.

$60,000,000 RELIEF BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—Inter-party co-operation on emergency relief legislation today, at least seemed a strictly congressional affair, with the white house left out.

Party leaders in the senate showed what co-operation meant to them by getting together on increasing from $25,000,000 to $60,000,000 the president's recommendation for relief to farmers of the drouth states.

This, the first measure of the emergency program, goes before the senate next Monday, with the unanimous approval of the agricultural committee given to the larger figure. Senator McNary, chairman of the group and assistant republican leader, placed his name on the measure. Democratic Leader Robinson warned there would be a floor fight unless the $60,000,000 prevailed. Immediate consideration and passage within the week will be sought.

Russ Plotters to Know Fate Soon

MOSCOW, Dec. 6—(AP)—The soviet court extraordinary which has been sitting in trial of eight soviet engineers charged with conspiracy to overthrow the Moscow government adjourned at noon today to consider their sentences, which will be pronounced about 6 p. m., tomorrow (11 a. m., E. S. T.)

There has been no question of guilt involved in the trial, which has been in progress nearly two weeks. The eight defendants admitted the conspiracy in all its detail. Despite this the government constructed a thorough case against them, broadcasting their guilt to the Russian world by radio and motion picture.

Adjournment was taken after the last two of the defendants, Sergei Kuprianov and Xenephon Sitnin, had made pleas of mercy to the court.

Miss Abbott Says Rural Children Are Neglected

U. S. Official Laments Lack of Educational and Scientific Health Activities in Country.

BOSTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—Neglect of the rural child today was pronounced "a general rule in practically every field of child welfare" by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau.

Speaking before the women's division of the American Farm Bureau federation, Miss Abbott said the rural setting, with its lack of crowding, was an advantage to children, but lack of educational and scientific health facilities more than counterbalanced this.

Commenting on lack of Juvenile court procedure and probation system advantages for delinquent children in rural districts, Miss Abbott pronounced state assumption of new duties in social work "a move in the right direction." She urged also the necessity of "county responsibility" in correlation with state efforts in both social welfare and the public health work.

"The federal government is responsible for the one shining exception in the universal neglect of the rural child and its mother," said Miss Abbott. "For seven years the Sheppard-Towner act was promoting maternity and infancy welfare."

METROPOLITAN TENOR HURT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—(AP)—Frederick Jagel, Metropolitan Opera tenor, was in a hospital today with a multiple fracture of the left leg as the result of being knocked down by an automobile yesterday near his home in Kew Gardens. Doctors said he would have to undergo an operation in a few days. He will be confined to the hospital for about six weeks.

Reduced Holiday Rates—During the period from December 19 to 24, inclusive, rates on the Union Pacific, Burlington, Rock Island and Northwestern railroads out of Lincoln will be a fare and a third for round trip tickets. These rates include all points on the systems. The return limit is January 6.

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

QUESTION.

It would seem to me that a minister who preaches evangelical sermons in a forceful manner, although requiring little study in their preparation, is more popular as a preacher and draws better than one who is a good student of philosophy and preaches sermons containing much food for thought. If this surmise is correct will you explain the reasons?

ANSWER.

You are entirely wrong in the view that what you call "evangelical sermons" require "little study in their preparation." As a matter of fact, truly evangelical sermons need more careful thinking and logical arrangement than any other type of pulpit utterance. It is comparatively easy to discourse on the latest "best seller," to luxuriate in crude literary excursions, or to excoriate the Mayor and Aldermen of a given city.

But when the preacher attempts to explain the ways of God toward men and to interpret the mysterious depths of complex human nature, he is insufficient for his task apart from divine aid. The lasting triumphs of the pulpit are not won by haphazard glibness. They demand profound meditation on fundamental verities steeped in the preacher's personal experience.

Of course the truths of faith must be translated into the idiom of our day, Jesus Himself being our example in this respect. But they are not to be deprived of the extensive resources of culture and learning. The genuinely "popular preacher," such as Beecher or Phillips Brooks, always has his "Old Guard" behind the ridge, to send in at the climax of his plea. Make no mistake about crowds. Unless they are well served, the ability to draw them is a second rate performance, often accompanied by considerable mischief. Not how many attend a church, but what they get when there constitutes the real test of effective preaching.

QUESTION.

Newark, N. J.

Will you please explain the philosophy of the Christian doctrine of salvation?

ANSWER.

Some theologians trace it to God's will, which is to say that Jesus was manifested as the Christ or Anointed One, to save men from their sins, solely because God chose to thus manifest Him. Every human effort, such as repentance, confession, faith, is likewise inspired and directed by God alone. Deliverance from moral danger and the experience of Divine favor are the rewards of man's strict conformity with God's plan.

However, there is another and to my thinking, a better explanation of these realities of Christian consciousness. Why not regard them as harmonizing with the total life process of humanity, and not as God's arbitrary acts? It is generally recognized that man is the crown of an ageless cosmic movement, a growing and as yet an incomplete creature, with infinite moral and spiritual capacities. The existence of these capacities points to the certainty that provision has been made for their fuller realization.

He is able to distinguish between right and wrong; to condemn himself for doing wrong, to repent of the wrong done, to subordinate his entire being to its one great and satisfactory end, which is to know and obey God and enjoy Him forever. Surely we cannot believe that man would be left suspended with these divine elements in his nature and no opportunity for their fruition. Jesus is the solution of the problem. In Him God reaches down to man and man reaches up to God. He expresses the heart of Deity, and also by His life and teaching. His death and mediatorial sovereignty, he fulfills in Himself all the terms of Divine sonship, and enables us to do the same.

QUESTION.

Little Rock, Ark.

How do you account for the growth of symbolism in modern religion?

ANSWER.

Symbolism has never been separated from religion. The traditional churches have developed and maintained it during all the centuries of their history. It has revived in Protestant churches, however, partly because of the restlessness and discontent of their members with conflicting doctrinal forms. Again, there will always be differences of temperament in believers, and those who warmly appreciate the beautiful as an essential element of religion will revert to it if that element has been unduly repressed. Hence the recent stately shrines and churches to be seen in many places.

But their cause goes still deeper. You have probably observed the subtle movements toward the recovery of the transcendent and the mystical. If not, study Christian Science. Gothic architecture and occultism's various manifestations. Here the pretensions of physical knowledge to explain life's far-reaching mysteries has reacted.

Science itself now confesses its failure and drifts toward the frontiers of the mysterious. It sees that what it held as final realities are no more than the symbols of a hidden force and of vast hinterlands of knowledge as yet unexplored. So it is not surprising that millions of souls caught in a theological maelstrom should return to rites and ceremonies for help. What is more, when rightly understood, they help amazingly, a fact long since appreciated by our Roman Catholic brethren.

SPLASH! She Swims to Conquer

By Eleanore Burnett.

Copyright 1930, by Central Press Association

Chapter 46.

Kitty reported at the office the next morning, a pale and washed out little ghost of herself. She had again made up her mind to leave.

Therefore, she would show as little as possible why she was leaving; this meant, in particular, no evidence whatever to Edith that she knew any more of the "mystery girl" of the office than she had before.

She greeted them all as if she had but been away on a vacation and waited patiently to be called to Mr. Goss' office.

The call came almost immediately.

"Just got back—find you back!" he greeted her. "Well, well?"

"Did you see to it that my friendly taxi driver was paid?" she asked.

"Hundred dollars. Darn your driver! What happened?" Goss barked at her.

She told him in detail, making it as short as she could. At her account of her swim for safety, his eyes flashed. When she retailed how she had at last seen three faces, he grinned and made rapid notes of her description. But when she told him of the rescue and the anonymous letters, he rose and came toward her rapidly...."I want those letters!" he barked. "Where are they?"

"I suppose the men still have them....why, they are not important, are they?"

"Get them!" he cried. "I must have them! And you mustn't say they are for me—say you want them for souvenirs. Never mind why I want them. Listen! Someone got his fingers burned in the market! You've done more with your impossible pluck than all the men, all that no-good partner of mine, all the detectives in New York have done! Tell Ayers I said to give you a thousand dollars in cash and a thousand more a year from now on and ...."

"No!" answered Kitty. "I'm leaving you, Mr. Goss."

"Don't be silly!" he responded. "You can't leave. Your job isn't done! Only you can recognize those men. What's the matter—not enough? Make it two thousand!"

"Oh, you are—you are impossible!" cried Kitty. "I didn't do this for money! I did it for loyalty and because—because—"

"Because you are in love with that fool partner of mine!"

Mr. Goss smiled—at least, Kitty was under the impression that he meant the dwarfish grimace for a smile.

"I am not in love, as you put it, with Mr. Platt. He is not a fool. Neither is he in love with me!" stated Kitty. "And I am going to leave. But I will not sever my connection here as long as you think my job is not finished. Neither will I accept a raise in salary nor a thousand dollars for what I have done."

"What!" Goss snarled. "You'll obey orders!"

"No," answered Kitty. "I'll stay on my terms, or I'll walk out now and not come back. I did not do this for money and I will not accept money for it. If that is understood, I will remain while I am necessary. If you will not have it so, then I will leave now. But under no circumstances will I obey you and accept money which I have not earned!"

For a moment Kitty thought the dwarf would strike her. His eyes gleamed feverishly, he flushed a dull red and his hands clenched.

Then he relaxed and grimaced again.

"The office is full of fools!" he snapped. "Get out and send me Bridges. And come back here tomorrow morning—with some sense in your pretty head! Go!"

Kitty went.

Giving only passing wonder that she did not see Atlee, Kitty departed, understanding that she had a holiday if nothing else. Here Goss was supreme, since she could not take his dictation if he would give her none.

She spent the afternoon in the park, thinking, wondering, and sometimes praying a little. That evening was to be a hard one; she had to slay with words, not deeds.

Gordon called for her promptly at six. She was hardly in the car before he had an arm around her; at the first empty corner he kissed her.

She made no resistance. Now was not the time. Neither did she make any response.

"What's the matter?" he asked, solicitously. "You not glad to see me?"

She did not answer for a moment. Then:

"Where are we going?"

"Where do you want to go?" he asked. "The world is yours! I give it to you!"

"I don't want the world; I want to go some place where we can talk, I have something to say."

He looked at her minutely. His fine face clouded and Kitty felt a clutch at her heart. He looked so sincere, so honest, so good.....and she knew him to be a liar. He wanted to get rid of her!

He said no more, evidently sensing that something was the matter. He drove to one of the little inns on Long Island to which they had often been, where a semi-private dining room afforded an opportunity for conversation.

He ordered supper, but Kitty raised her hand.

"Please, no," she begged. "I will not eat anything."

As the waiter left the room, he turned to her, his arms out.

"My dearest, what is the matter? You are so strange, so cold...."

She smiled faintly.

"I am not your dearest!" she spoke with neither passion nor grief in her voice. "I agreed to meet you tonight, Gordon, for one last interview, because I didn't know how to get out of it. Also because it didn't seem courageous, not to face you. I'd rather be shot than say it. But it's not my fault!"

Her shoulders lifted proudly.

"I learned many things this week. If you will cast your mind back to last Tuesday evening, you will know what I learned."

"Tuesday—Tuesday?" he wondered. "Why, that's the day I left town...."

"Did you?" she allowed a little mockery to come into her voice. "I might trick you into lying to me—again. I might cross examine you as to where you went and what time you left. But I will not demean either of us by so doing. I merely say to you that what you said and did that evening, which affects me, I know. And because I knew, Gordon, I—Oh, how could you lie so to me!"

For the first time her voice broke

He looked at her as looks a man who sees what is not believable, who hears something which is not to be heard.

"I—lie to you?" he stammered. "I never lied to you!"

"Gordon!"

"You know what happened Tuesday that affects you? Nothing happened Tuesday that affects you! Not a single thing...."

She raised her hand.

"Don't lie any more. It hurts. I know. You see, I heard for myself. I saw for myself. And—and—you won't have any difficulty in getting rid of me! Oh, I am not crying for you, man; I cry for myself! I hate myself that I can't control my eyes, but you cut me to the very heart! Do you understand? I saw you—I saw you! I heard you—I heard you say it! Now leave me—please. I'll go home in a taxi. I never—never want to see you again!"

Gordon's brows knit. He waited a full minute before he answered. Then: "Do you remember saying to me that whatever I did would always be all right with you? That you would never distrust me again?" he asked gently.

Kitty noded. "I remember. But that meant anything you did which didn't affect your—your—shall I say regard for me? I tell you I heard you! I saw you with my own eyes! And I am through, through, through!"

Kitty looked him in the eye, saw his blaze and die to a cold grey, saw his hands clench, then relax. He bowed.

"Even a murderer may be heard in his own defense!" he stated gently. "But so be it. Good bye—and God bless you."

When the waiter came half an hour later he found a woman with her head on her arms weeping as if her heart were broken.

MUST PAY FOR STOLEN CATTLE

Omaha Buyer Loses Through Testimony Prison Inmates.

OMAHA, Dec. 6—(AP)—Testimony of two convicts was instrumental here yesterday in persuading a jury in District court to bring in a verdict reimbursing Louis Richtmeyer, Cherry county rancher, to the extent of $3,275 for his loss in a cattle theft.

The verdict was against the Mutual Livestock Commission company of Omaha, an innocent party, which purchased the cattle from the pair.

The convicts, who were brought here under guard from the penitentiary at Lincoln, were Clarence Gross, former employe at the Richtmeyer ranch, and his stepfather, Jake Rausch, a former Thomas county rancher. They are serving a five year term for the theft.

Gross testified that he had driven twenty head of Hereford cattle off Richtmeyer's ranch and took them to Rausch's place. Richtmeyer became suspicious of the pair and had Gross arrested.

The Omaha company protested that it had bought the cattle in good faith.

The Cripple

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Success is seldom won by luck;
'Tis chiefly the reward of pluck.
—Old Mother Nature.

The young Muskrat who had twisted off a foot and left it in a cruel steel trap was at first so happy in being free that he didn't give much thought to that lost foot. He followed his father, Jerry Muskrat, straight home to the big house in the Smiling Pool, which he entered by diving and swimming through the long underwater hall. Oh how good it was to come up inside where he was safe from all enemies. On a comfortable bed of dry grass he first gave real attention to his injured leg. It ached, did that stump of a leg. Yes, indeed, it ached. But the ache was not so great as it had been when the leg was held fast in that dreadful trap. He gently licked it to get it clean. Presently he went to slepe. You see he had had no rest or sleep for so long that he was quite used up.

Oh how good it was when at last he awoke to find that he was safely at home in that big house in the Smiling Pool. At first he could not remember what was wrong. Then the ache in that stump of a left front leg brought it all back. For two days he did not even try to go outside. Food was brought in. He didn't need much for he had quite lost his appetite. All the time Old Mother Nature was at work healing that stump of a leg. He was a healthy young Muskrat and it was surprising how rapidly the healing went on.

When at last the young Muskrat did venture out he did not realize at first how crippled he was. He could swim without difficulty, for there was nothing the matter with his strong hind feet with their partly webbed toes and there was nothing the matter with his tail wherewith to scull. It was when he came to the first landing and started to climb out that he realized something of what life was to be for him thereafter. Having but one forefoot and that stump which was not yet fully healed, he could not get out on that little landing. He had to hunt another that was lower.

Jerry Muskrat saw him. "Never mind," said he "Think how much worse it would have been to have lost your life."

The young Muskrat was almost ready to doubt this as he lost his balance and fell forward while climbing up on a log, but when he remembered the boy with the stick lifted to kill him he decided that after all it was better, much better, to be alive. He soon discovered that he was badly handicapped if he tried to fight with any of his companions and so he took pains not to quarrel with them. He discovered that he could not run, so he seldom went more than a jump from the water. He found that he could not dig as he had dug once upon a time so he no longer tried to dig up roots for food, but hunted more for other food.

Fortunately he was seen by Farmer Brown's Boy.

Although, however, he got along surprisingly well for one so crippled. Fortunately he was seen by Farmer Brown's boy. After that there was always plenty to eat where he could easily get it. So he grew strong and big and more and more clever in getting about on three legs. But always he remembered the dreadful lesson of the trap and never once did he forget to look carefully before putting a foot down anywhere. Even when there was no reason to think that there might be traps about he was just so careful.

Jerry Muskrat used to notice this and grin, but he took care that the young Muskrat shouldn't see him do it. "He'll live to be old and wise," said Jerry to Mrs. Jerry. "It was a dreadful lesson, but it has made a new Muskrat of him. Yes, sir, it has so. Notice how ready he is to listen to advice now. He was headstrong and heedless, but now he is cautious and watchful and suspicious. Never again will he be caught in a trap, nor is he likely to be caught by any of our enemies. He may be crippled so far as that leg is concerned, but there is nothing crippled about his wits."

It was so. In time that crippled young Muskrat proved to be the smartest of all the young Muskrats and was quite capable of taking care of himself. But he had paid a dreadful price. Don't you think so?

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

Three hundred dollars lost! The shrewd
Deride my hot, impulsive mood.
I loaned it to a felon. One
The law had stamped a brand upon,
Who, feigning he was faint of breath,
Opened a window, dove to death.
Three hundred dollars with him went,
Which I in pleasure might have spent.

The wise men laugh and say I knew
His ugly record through and through;
That there are good men to befriend
And honest men to whom to lend;
But this I knew who heard his plea:
None needed friendship more than he
I was the last of all on earth
To think he still could prove his worth.

Desperate he was to start again
And show himself a man to men.
I heard his story, and I gave
The money his one hope to save.
Then said—and now I wonder why—
"Henceforth 'twere better you should die
Then to betray with faithlessness
The last true friend whom you possess."

"I will remember you," he said—
And two days later he was dead.
Wise men repeat the story o'er,
Thinking the money I deplore,
But I've long ceased to dwell upon
Those cheap three hundred dollars gone,
While still I wonder—was he led
To death by those few word I said?

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

DISEASE MAY RESULT IF UNBALANCED MEALS LACKING VITAMINS ARE HABITUALLY SERVED.

The square meal—the balanced meal of the vitamins—the meal not out of cans, but which contained all the necessary vitamins in the form of the familiar foods—the meal we sat down to yesterday—had in the upper left-hand corner of the square meal table vitamins A and D in butter and cream. In the upper right-hand corner vitamin B in the form of milk. In the lower left-hand corned vitamin C in the form of green vegetables and fruits. In the lower right-hand corner of the table, vitamin PP or B2, in the form of lean meat and cheese.

Dr Clendening

You see it is a really square meal. You get vitamins in any balanced meal.

What happens if you lose the balance?

Suppose you do not eat the upper left and right-hand corners of the square meal! This is more disastrous for children than for grownups.

Lack of vitamin A brings on an inflammation of the yes, called Xerophthalmia. It occurs almost exclusively in infants.

Lack of vitamin D causes rickets. This is a disease causing softening of the bones in children.

Lack of vitamin B causes many disturbances. In the diet of our climate and civilization it is seldom absent from the diet of adults because it is present in yeast. It is also present in the shell of cereals. If not eaten regularly by adults a paralysis of the nerves, called beriberi, results. Lack of the proper amount of vitamin B in infants' diet results in retarded growth.

The little folk also suffer with the grown-ups when it comes to the lower left-hand corner of the square meal table. This is where vitamin C, present in fruits and milk and vegetables, is located. It causes scurvey. Both children and adults need fresh fruit, milk and vegetables.

Lack of the vitamins found in lean meat, cheese and eggs is responsible for a disease called pellagra. It occurs only in adults. Many cases were recognized some years ago in southern United States and also southern Europe—Italy, Greece and Bulgaria. It is characterized by an eruption on the skin, intestinal disturbances and sore mouth and tongue. It may progress to a fatal termination.

Editors note: Four pamphlets by Doctor Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are "Infant Feeding," "Reducing and Gaining," "Instructions on the Treatment of Diabetes" and "Hygiene of Women."

Daughter Is Healthy Now

"My thirteen-year-old daughter Maxine was troubled with backache and pain when she came into womanhood. I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help her because I used to take it myself at her age. Now she does not have to stay home from school and her color is good, she eats well and does not complain of being tired. We are recommending the Vegetable Compound to other school girls who need it. You may publish this letter."—Mrs. Floyd Butcher, R. #2, Gridley, Kansas.

Daughter Is Healthy Now

"My thirteen-year-old daughter Maxine was troubled with backache and pain when she came into womanhood. I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help her because I used to take it myself at her age. Now she does not have to stay home from school and her color is good, she eats well and does not complain of being tired. We are recommending the Vegetable Compound to other school girls who need it. You may publish this letter."—Mrs. Floyd Butcher, R. #2, Gridley, Kansas.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.
By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6

Curb stocks experienced a further spell of reaction at the week-end today, with a renewal of liquidation and bear pressure forcing many issues into new low ground for the year. Fresh selling broke out near the close with final quotations for session representing in most instances, the low points of the day.

Oils were subjected to persistent offerings with Gulf slumping 1⅞ points to a new low at 72, Humble reacting fractionally to a new lo wat 67½; and issues such as Standard of Indiana, and Standard of Kentucky hovering but slightly above their former low levels.

Utilities were similarly depressed with Electric Bond & Share breaking more than a point to below 44, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore dipping 1¾ to 86⅝, and Tampa showing a loss of 1½ points at 51½, among the more prominent utility leaders. Cities Service sagged to 17⅞, for a loss of about a point.

Investment Trusts pointed lower, with United Founders reaching ½ point to its previous low at 8¼.

Among the specialty leaders to give way were Deere off 1⅝ at 47; Noranda off 3¼ at 11; and Aluminum off 1 to 163.

Rail Shares Hit New 1930 Lows

Little Rallying Power is Exhibited in Any Section of List.

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6

All sections of the stock market settled down to a lower level of prices at the week-end as the result of steady and persistent selling of the rails, oils, steels, utilities and specialties. New York Central, Frisco, Erie and other well known rails sold at the year's lowest prices, as also did a number of the well-known specialties, including Eastman Kodak. Except for a brief period in the second hour, the flood of small selling orders pressed on the market without a let-up and little rallying power was exhibited in any section of the list.

Railroad stocks were under pressure until the final gong, and most of the active rail shares closed lower. New York Central at 124⅝ showed a loss of 1¼ and a new low price for the year. Baltimore & Ohio was down a point at 71½; Pennsylvania down ⅜ at 58½; Atchison down 2⅛ at 183¾, Southern Pacific down ⅞ at 98⅝.

Consolidated Gas, at the head of the utilities sold off 1⅛ and closed at 85. American & Foreign Power lost a point at 36, and Columbia Gas & Electric down ½ at 35⅝.

Allied Chemical sustained a 4-point loss at 199. United States Steel closed at 142⅛, down 1¼; Bethlehem at 59⅞, down 1½; American Can at 114, down 1⅝; American Tel. & Tel. at 184½, down 2; Westinghouse at 97⅛, down 1⅜; Vanadium at 51⅞, down 1⅝.

Stock sales totaled 716,700 shares, excluding inactives and odd lots.

Under the lead of the oils, rails and specialties, the stock market settled down to a slightly lower price level in a dull week-end session. A slight selling flurry in the oils followed announcement of the withdrawal of Prairie Oil & Gas as buyer of crude and the further decline in gasoline prices at Chicago and other wholesale markets.

Erie and New York Central led the rails into new low ground for the year, but selling pressure on the rails was not as heavy as in the last few days. New York Central fell through to 125¼ for a new low and Erie at 26 showed a loss of 2 points. Railroad bonds continued the downward move which has been in progress since Monday, but here again the volume of business was light.

The utility stocks and industrials in the second hour held within a close range of Friday's closing prices. The market again presented a sold-out appearance, and the bears were as little disposed to press their advantage as they were when the market was slumping in the last day or two.

The steel and copper stocks, with the bulk of the motors, equipments, electrical manufacturing and specialty stocks fell off about a point on the average under an extremely small turnover. Eastman Kodak was again under pressure and sold off nearly 4 points at 157. Allied Chemical lost 2½ and American Tel. 1½.

Anaconda Copper, Kennecott and other copper shares have finally declined to the level of prices prevailing at the time the advance in red metal prices to 12 cents was announced. This does not necessarily imply the failure of the efforts of copper men to stabilize their business, though copper buying has tapered off, the prospect over the year-end is considerably brighter.

Week-end business reviews pointed out the slight improvement in retail buying. Money conditions were unchanged, with funds in good supply.

The week-end market was irregular at the opening, with narrow price changes.

United States Steel dropped off ½ to 143⅛ and Bethlehem Steel lost ½ at 61⅜. Auburn Auto moved up a point to 87. Gold Dust was unchanged at 34⅞; Radio down ⅛ at 15⅞; Sears Roebuck down ⅜ at 52⅜; Westinghouse down ¾ at 98⅛; Radio Keith up ⅛ at 20¾.

Utility stocks were slightly irregular with American & Foreign Power down ½ at 36½; Electric Power down ¼ at 42⅞; Columbia Gas unchanged at 36; National Power & Light unchanged at 36½; United Corporation unchanged at 18⅜.

Standard Oil of New Jersey sold down ⅜ at 52⅜. Standard of New York was up ¼ at 25⅛; Standard of California down ¼ at 49⅜; Atlantic Refining up ⅛ at 21⅛.

Small losses were recorded for the active industrials. American Can sold down ⅛ at 115; American Tel. & Tel. down ⅜ at 185⅛; Vanadium down ½ at 53; [illegible] [illegible] down ¼ at 27⅛; General Electric was unchanged at 48; Montgomery Ward unchanged at 20⅝; General Motors unchanged at 35⅛.

Rails were quiet with Chesapeake & Ohio unchanged at 42; Southern Railway down ⅜ at 61⅝; New York Central unchanged at 126; Missouri Pacific up ⅛ at 27⅞; Pennsylvania up ⅛ at 59⅞.

The market was steady in the first period with slight recoveries in the industrial favorites.

64 ARE CLAIMED BY 'DEATH FOG'

asking each other whether the terror had not come out of some sort or air raid and if a new war had started.

The district presented a vivid semblance to danger zones in wartime when the alarm had been given of the approach of bombing raiders.

Inside the villager's houses, three and four families huddled together for shelter and companionship in danger real or fancied while in the streets men went about with the lower parts of their faces veiled like the women of Moslem countries, their mouths and noses protected by handkerchiefs and the improvised masks.

Cracks Chinked Up.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 6—(AP)—Terror-stricken inhabitants of the Meuse valley today shut themselves and their livestock tight within their houses, doors and windows closed and cracks chinked up to keep out a mysterious death-dealing fog which has covered the district for five days.

Sixty-four deaths were counted in eight villages. In every instance the end was the same, a choking as of asthma or asphyxiation and a sudden succumbing with death throes much like those of soldiers of the great war who, unprovided with masks, died in gas attacks. Others, uncounted, were in hospitals seriously ill.

"Black Death" Theory Offered.

Various theories were advanced to account for the visitation, which it was feared would assume much wider proportions. One of the most striking was that of Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, eminent British scientist, who said it was "something like the 'black death,'" the mysterious plague which ravaged western Europe in the Fourteenth century, laying low one-third of the population.

Scientists practically abandoned the theory that poison gases, emanating from buried German ammunition dumps, was the cause of the deaths, which were regarded as spread over too wide an area for such to be the case.

The ministry of health undertook a searching medical and judicial inquiry and while awaiting its result before making an official statement, announced that the medical experts making preliminary investigations supposed the deaths to be due to the intensely cold, wet fog which has lain over the area since Wednesday.

One theory was that the persons affected by the fog were virtually all asthmatic, or afflicted with lung and heart ailments which made them susceptible to the unnatural conditions, or already had weakened lungs due to work in factories, or coal, zinc, stone, lead and sulphuric acid industries. This was discounted somewhat, however, by the extent of the calamity.

CHARGE AGAINST LEVINE DROPPED

VIENNA, Dec. 6—(AP)— The Austrian authorities today reported that they had decided to drop charges of counterfeiting against Charles A. Levine, first American trans-Atlantic airplane passenger who was arrested November 17, after he had arranged to make matrices for small French coins of small denomination.

Levine explained his wish for the matrices was motivated by a desire to print his own likeness and that of his wife on the back of medals which otherwise would appear as French coins, taking the products back to America for distribution.

Since he was understood here to be wealthy in his own name, the charges of intent to counterfeit two-franc pieces were generally discounted by every one except the authorities, who held to the letter of the law.

ADMINISTRATION FEARS DEFICIT OF $355,000,000

Unemployment and Farm Relief Funds Added To Budget Figure.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—The deficit expected by the administration at the end of this fiscal yaer will be at least $355,000,000.

This figure has been arrived at by adding the appropriations for unemployment and farm relief to the routine expenditures which alone will account for the $180,000,000 deficit estimated in the president's budget message.

It was figured also on the basis of $25,000,000 for farmers' seed loans. Should the $60,000,000 figure advanced in congress prevail, the deficit would total $390,000,000. Any further appropriations not included in the president's recommendations to congress would, of course, push the figure still higher.

Would Reach Limit.

The administration considers the budget recommendations, and supplementary relief expenditures advocated, reach the limit to which the government may go without increasing taxes. There is a distinct disapproval of suggestions that money be borrowed for relief financing, the sentiment being based on a theory that this would take up capital which is needed urgently by private enterprise. Upon the latter, a large share of the relief burden is expected to fall.

Additional information on the building program advanced by the president is that many of the projects included already have been advanced through the preliminary stages so actual employment of labor can begin as soon as the money becomes available or contracts are let.

Fear Long Delay.

An argument in support of the president's contention that selection of new projects by congress would involve too much time for effective use of the appropriation this winter, has been advanced in studies by the budget bureau which show eight to nine months must elapse in preparation between the time a project is authorized and actual work commenced.

That period is represented as exceeding the administration's views of the length of the business recession.

Building Permits

Grace and Gertrude Aitken, 2331 Woodscrest avenue, stone and veneer residence, $14,000.

THE WEATHER

High pressure prevails over the western half of the country and over the north Atlantic states, while pressure is relatively low over the south Atlantic states, Arizona, Manitoba, and Ontario. Light rains occurred within the last 24 hours over most of the region east of the Mississippi River. Temperatures have fallen over much of the middle and southern Great Plains and in and have risen in the Canadian Northwest, parts of the Mountain and Plateau regions, the Lake region, and the Atlantic states.

All Sections Of Stock Market Settle To Lower Price Level As Result Of Persistent Selling

Corn Values Given A Downward Push

Close 1½ to 2c Lower at Chicago; July Wheat is Heavy.

All deliveries of wheat, except July showed considerable steadiness during the short session on the Chicago board of trade today in face of future weakness in corn. Some supporting orders in wheat were reported to be for farm board account.

Closing prices for wheat, except July, were [illegible] July was down [illegible] Corn closed 1½ to 2c lower, oats [illegible] to 1 and rye [illegible] to 1c lower.

Wheat futures were unchanged to ¼c lower at outset with buying on firmness in Liverpool and reports of unfavorable growing weather in Argentine and Australia. Later the market reacted due largely to lack of important outside interest. Trade was moderate. There appeared to be supporting orders in the pit for old May delivery, with houses usually acting for the farm board agencies the biggest.

July wheat was especially heavy all the session with selling on the snow or rain over the winter wheat belt. Liverpool closed ¼ to ⅜d lower. Buenos Aires was ¼ to ⅜c lower while Winnipeg was [illegible] ¼ to ⅜c.

Corn displayed a heavy undertone with selling on expectations of larger receipts and poor demand. Considerable rain or snow was noted over the belt. Cash market is weak, with increasing receipts causing buyers to hold off.

Oats and rye were under pressure and lower due to easiness in corn. Estimated carlot receipts were: Wheat 3, corn 254 and oats 31.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.
By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6
Curb stocks experienced a further spell of reaction at the week-end today, with a renewal of liquidation and bear pressure forcing many issues into new low ground for the year. Fresh selling broke out near the close with final quotations for session representing in most instances, the low points of the day.

Oils were subjected to persistent offerings with Gulf slumping 1⅞ points to a new low at 72, Humble reacting fractionally to a new low at 67⅞; and issues such as Standard of Indiana, and Standard of Kentucky hovering but slightly above their former low levels.

Utilities were similarly depressed with Electric Bond & Share breaking more than a point to below 44, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore dipping 1¾ to 86⅛, and Tampa showing a loss of 1½ points at 51½, among the more prominent utility leaders.

Cities Service sagged to 17⅞, for a loss of about a point.

Investment Trusts pointed lower, with United Founders reaching ½ point to its previous low at 8¼.

Among the specialty leaders to give way were Deere off 1⅞ at 47; Noranda off 3¼ at 11; and Aluminum off 1 to 163.

Rail Shares Hit New 1930 Lows

Little Rallying Power is Exhibited in Any Section of List.

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6

All sections of the stock market settled down to a lower level of prices at the week-end as the result of steady and persistent selling of the rails, oils, steels, utilities and specialties. New York Central, Frisco, Erie and other well known rails sold at the year's lowest prices, as also did a number of the well-known specialties, including Eastman Kodak. Except for a brief period in the second hour, the flood of small selling orders pressed on the market without a let-up and little rallying power was exhibited in any section of the list.

Railroad stocks were under pressure until the final gong, and most of the active rail shares closed lower. New York Central at 124½, showed a loss of 1¼ and a new low price for the year. Baltimore & Ohio was down a point at 71½; Pennsylvania down ⅝ at 59⅛; Atchison down 2½ at 183¼, Southern Pacific down ⅞ at 60⅞.

Consolidated Gas, at the head of the utilities sold off 1⅝ and closed at 85. American & Foreign Power lost a point at 36, and Columbia Gas & Electric down ½ at 35½.

Allied Chemical sustained a 4-point loss at 199. United States Steel closed at 142⅝, down 1⅛; Bethlehem at 59⅞, down 1½; American Can at 114, down 1⅝; American Tel. & Tel. at 184½, down 2; Westinghouse at 97⅞, down 1⅜; Vanadium at 51⅞, down 1⅜.

Stock sales totaled 716,700 shares, excluding inactives and odd lots.

Under the lead of the oils, rails and specialties, the stock market settled down to a slightly lower price level in a dull week-end session. A slight selling flurry in the oils followed announcement of the withdrawal of Prairie Oil & Gas as buyer of crude and the further decline in gasoline prices at Chicago and other wholesale markets.

Erie and New York Central led the rails into new low ground for the year, but selling pressure on the rails was not as heavy as in the last few days. New York Central fell through to 125¼ for a new low and Erie at 26 showed a loss of 2 points. Railroad bonds continued the downward move which has been in progress since Monday, but here again the volume of business was light.

The utility stocks and industrials in the second hour held within a close range of Friday's closing prices. The market again presented a sold-out appearance, and the bears were as little disposed to press their advantage as they were when the market was slumping in the last day or two.

The steel and copper stocks, with the bulk of the motors, equipments, electrical manufacturing and specialty stocks fell off about a point on the average under an extremely small turnover. Eastman Kodak was again under pressure and sold off nearly 4 points at 157. Allied Chemical lost 2½ and American Tel. 1½.

Anaconda Copper, Kennecott and other copper shares have finally declined to the level of prices prevailing at the time the advance in red metal prices to 12 cents was announced. This does not necessarily imply the failure of the efforts of copper men to stabilize their business, though copper buying has tapered off, the prospect over the year-end is considerably brighter.

Week-end business reviews pointed out the slight improvement in retail buying. Money conditions were unchanged, with funds in good supply.

The week-end market was irregular at the opening, with narrow price changes. United States Steel dropped off ⅛ to 143⅛ and Bethlehem Steel lost ¼ at 61⅛. Auburn Auto moved up a point to 87. Gold Dust was unchanged at 34⅝. Radio down ⅛ at 15⅝; Sears Roebuck down ⅜ at 52⅛; Westinghouse down ¾ at 98⅛. Radio Keith up ⅛ at 20¾.

Utility stocks were slightly irregular with American & Foreign Power down ½ at 36½; Electric Power down ¼ at 42⅞. Columbia Gas unchanged at 36; National Power & Light unchanged at 36½; United Corporation unchanged at 18⅛.

Standard Oil of New Jersey sold down ⅜ at 53⅜. Standard of New York was up ⅛ at 25¼; Standard of California down ¼ at 49⅜; Atlantic Refining up ⅛ at 21⅛.

Small losses were recorded for the active industrials. American Can sold down ⅜ at 115; American Tel. & Tel. down ⅜ at 186½; Vanadium down ¼ at 52; Hudson Motor down ¼ at 21½. General Electric was unchanged at 48; Montgomery Ward unchanged at 21½; General Motors unchanged at 35⅛.

Rails were quiet, with Chesapeake & Ohio unchanged at 42; Southern Railway down ⅜ at 61⅛; New York Central unchanged at 126; Missouri Pacific up ⅛ at 27⅛; Pennsylvania up ⅛ at 59⅞.

The market was steady in the first period with slight recoveries in the industrial favorites.

64 ARE CLAIMED BY 'DEATH FOG'

asking each other whether the terror had not come out of some sort or air raid and if a new war had started.

The district presented a vivid semblance to danger zones in wartime when the alarm had been given of the approach of bombing raiders.

Inside the villager's houses, three and four families huddled together for shelter and companionship in danger real or fancied while in the streets men went about with the lower parts of their faces veiled like the women of Moslem countries, their mouths and noses protected by handkerchiefs and the improvised masks.

Cracks Chinked Up.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 6—(AP)—Terror-stricken inhabitants of the Meuse valley today shut themselves and their livestock tight within their houses, doors and windows closed and cracks chinked up to keep out a mysterious death-dealing fog which has covered the district for five days.

Sixty-four deaths were counted in eight villages. In every instance the end was the same, a choking as of asthma or asphyxiation and a sudden succumbing with death throes much like those of soldiers of the great war who, unprovided with masks, died in gas attacks. Others, uncounted, were in hospitals seriously ill.

"Black Death" Theory Offered.

Various theories were advanced to account for the visitation, which it was feared would assume much wider proportions. One of the most striking was that of Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, eminent British scientist, who said it was "something like the 'black death,'" the mysterious plague which ravaged western Europe in the Fourteenth century, laying low one-third of the population.

Scientists practically abandoned the theory that poison gases, emanating from buried German ammunition dumps, was the cause of the deaths, which were regarded as spread over too wide an area for such to be the case.

The ministry of health undertook a searching medical and judicial inquiry and while awaiting its result before making an official statement, announced that the medical experts making preliminary investigations supposed the deaths to be due to the intensely cold, wet fog which has lain over the area since Wednesday.

One theory was that the persons affected by the fog were virtually all asthmatic, or afflicted with lung and heart ailments which made them susceptible to the unnatural conditions, or already had weakened lungs due to work in factories, or coal, zinc, stone, lead and sulphuric acid industries. This was discounted somewhat, however, by the extent of the calamity.

CHARGE AGAINST LEVINE DROPPED

VIENNA, Dec. 6—(AP)— The Austrian authorities today reported that they had decided to drop charges of counterfeiting against Charles A. Levine, first American trans-Atlantic airplane passenger who was arrested November 17, after he had arranged to make matrices for small French coins of small denomination.

Levine explained his wish for the matrices was motivated by a desire to print his own likeness and that of his wife on the back of medals which otherwise would appear as French coins, taking the products back to America for distribution.

Since he was understood here to be wealthy in his own name, the charges of intent to counterfeit two-franc pieces were generally discounted by every one except the authorities, who held to the letter of the law.

ADMINISTRATION FEARS DEFICIT OF $355,000,000

Unemployment and Farm Relief Funds Added To Budget Figure.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—The deficit expected by the administration at the end of this fiscal yaer will be at least $355,000,000.

This figure has been arrived at by adding the appropriations for unemployment and farm relief to the routine expenditures which alone will account for the $180,000,000 deficit estimated in the president's budget message.

It was figured also on the basis of $25,000,000 for farmers' seed loans. Should the $60,000,000 figure advanced in congress prevail, the deficit would total $390,000,000. Any further appropriations not included in the president's recommendations to congress would, of course, push the figure still higher.

Would Reach Limit.

The administration considers the budget recommendations, and supplementary relief expenditures advocated, reach the limit to which the government may go without increasing taxes. There is a distinct disapproval of suggestions that money be borrowed for relief financing, the sentiment being based on a theory that this would take up capital which is needed urgently by private enterprise. Upon the latter, a large share of the relief burden is expected to fall.

Additional information on the building program advanced by the president is that many of the projects included already have been advanced through the preliminary stages so actual employment of labor can begin as soon as the money becomes available or contracts are let.

Fear Long Delay.

An argument in support of the president's contention that selection of new projects by congress would involve too much time for effective use of the appropriation this winter, has been advanced in studies by the budget bureau which show eight to nine months must elapse in preparation between the time a project is authorized and actual work commenced.

That period is represented as exceeding the administration's views of the length of the business recession.

Building Permits

Grace and Gertrude Aitken, 2331 Woodscrest avenue, stone and veneer residence, $14,000.

Laura B. Wood, 2655 South Thirteenth street, remodel frame garage, $50.

THE WEATHER

High pressure prevails over the western half of the country and over the north Atlantic states, while pressure is relatively low over the south Atlantic states, Arizona, Manitoba, and Ontario. Light rains occurred within the last 24 hours over most of the region east of the Mississippi River. Temperatures have fallen over much of the middle and southern Great Plains and in and have risen in the Canadian Northwest, parts of the Mountain and Plateau regions, the Lake region, and the Atlantic states.

CUT DOWN SIZE ROAD MARKERS

Those Used on Omaha Streets Are To Be Smaller.

An agreement whereby the state of Nebraska will furnish highway markers smaller than the regulation size to be placed on portions of routes within the city of Omaha, and will be arranged in two rows on either side of the supporting posts, instead of down the middle, was reached Saturday morning at a conference held in Governor Weaver's office.

Mayor R. L. Metcalfe of Omaha and Public Relations Director R. J. Low of that city gave their promise that a big welcome sign will be erected by Omaha at the west end of the Douglas street bridge over the Missouri river, to greet automobilists driving across from Council Bluffs.

State Engineer Cochran was called into the confab and said his department would provide the new highway markers needed to replace those now on the streets of Omaha. The ones to be taken down will be used eleswhere on federal and state highways.

While the new signs and the numbering on them will be smaller, they will conform to the standard shapes and types. The city officials thought that smaller ones would look neater, and that each one would show up more distinctly by grouping them in two rows, thus allowing more space between.

While at the capitol, Mayor Metcalfe called on Attorney General Sorensen to discuss plans for construction of a new bridge across the Missouri at the foot of Farnam street in Omaha. A special act of congress authorized this structure to be built and created a special commission to have charge of the project. The mayors of Omaha and Council Bluffs, the attorney general of Nebraska, and one citizen of each city are members of the commission.

Mayor Metcalfe said that no definite plan for financing construction of the bridge has yet been adopted, but that some method of paying for it out of toll revenues to be collected after its completion will doubtless be worked out. The city's legal department is now engaged in preparing an opinion as to how this may be done.

ENTER BIDS FOR NEW FIRE TRUCK

Price Varies From $8,500 to $11,400 For Hook and Ladder Apparatus.

Six firms entered bids Saturday morning to supply the city fire department with the new hook and ladder truck.

The bids varied from $8,500 to $11,400, the difference being largely due to the type of construction. According to Commissioner William Foster, the three high offers of $11,400 each are from companies which specialize in fire truck manufacture, while the others are all from firms that assemble fire apparatus on standard truck bodies. City Engineer D. L. Erickson will make his recommendation on the bids following a conference with the representatives of the competing companies.

The bids were: Mack Motor Truck Co., $11,250; White Truck Co., $10,260; Anderson Co., $8,500; Seagrave Co., $11,400; Ahrens-Fox Co., $11,400; and American La France Co., $11,400.

Bids were also opened by the city clerk on the projected new water main for M street from Eleventh to Fourteenth. A 10-inch pipe will be laid to replace the four and six inch variety which was put down about a quarter of a century ago.

The bids were: Knudsen, 6,4,438; Dobson-Robinson Co., $6,479; and Vlasnik Co., $6,318.

Youth Injures Foot When Kicks Window

Accidentally kicking through a window in the Y. M. C. A. shower room Friday night, Robert Soukup, 19, 3039 Stratford avenue, severed a tendon in his right foot, near the heel. He was attended by Dr. George E. Lewis, city physician, and Dr. W. C. Becker at St. Elizabeth's hospital and then taken home.

DINGWELL STORE BURCHARD ROBBED

(Special to The Star.)

BURCHARD, Neb., Dec. 6—Robbers worked in Burchard the night or early morning of Friday, and escaped with loot to the amount of several hundred dollars. The general store of F. E. Dingwell was pilfered, the thieves gaining admittance by breaking a rear window and prying open the door, and also prying open an inner door that separated the warehouse from the store proper. About $8 in small change was taken from the cash drawer and a considerable amount of groceries and clothing was stolen.

150 ATTEND FARM BUREAU DINNER

W. H. Brokaw Gives Talk On Development of Extension Work.

With 150 in attendance, the annual dinner meeting of the Lancaster county farm bureau was held Saturday noon at the Lindell hotel. W. H. Brokaw, director of extension work in Nebraska, and Mrs. Eva Morse, member of the board of education at Omaha, were the chief speakers.

The bureau adopted resolutions expressing sympathy for the relatives of Carl H. Becker and W. F. Dale, late members of the organization. It was further resolved that the death of these two men "leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members and friends of this organization, and will provide a serious loss to the community and the public."

Brokaw spoke on the development of extension work throughout the state. He said that he felt the work was making worthwhile accomplishments, as evidenced by the thousands of boys and girls enrolled in 4-H work and the hundreds of women's project groups that are now active. Mrs. Morse devoted her talk primarily to the subject of adult education for women, stressing the opportunities farm women have in that field.

Entertainment was furnished by the University Players, who presented a one-act play and by a musical trio in charge of Miss Valorita Callen, connected with the University School of Music. Brief talks were given by County Agent J. F. Purbaugh and Assistant County Agent Gladys Woodward.

BRANSON MAKES ANOTHER OFFER

Would Allow City to Bore Wells 150 Feet Deep on Land.

Charles M. Branson, who has repeatedly urged the city to test for its water supply on his farm west of the penitentiary, and who refused to sign a permit agreement recently framed by the city attorney, brought his own draft of a formal assent to the mayor and city attorney Friday. Frank A. Peterson, city attorney, said Saturday morning, that he was considering the agreement submitted, but that in the meantime he was also framing a document that would protect the city's interest if the tests are made.

Branson's suggested agreement, merely gives the city permission to sink the wells on his farm "to a depth limit of 150 feet, from this date until March 1, 1931, leaving the property in smooth agricultural condition."

Peterson is anxious to have inserted in any such document a clause exempting the city from any claims which might arise out of the tests.

In a postscript, Branson's letter says:

"I am advised by competent attorneys that the agreement the city attorney asked me to sign would be an easment or cloud on this property for all time."

Commissioner William Schroeder, head of the water department, took particular exception to the 150 depth limit, asserting the necessity to go as far down as needed to reach certain geological formation in order to determine the true worth of the well for water supply purposes.

WORLD WHEAT YIELD HIGHER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—The prospective wheat production of thirty-eight countries for 1930 was reported today by the department of agriculture to represent an increase of 5.6 per cent over a year ago.

The production was fixed at 3,343,961,000 bushels.

Egyptian production, estimated at 41,116,000 bushels, showed a decrease of about 4000000 bushels under a year ago.

The department also reported that exports of wheat including flour, from the United States from July 1 to November 29 were 78,018,000 bushels against 79,766,000 bushels during the same period last year.

HEARING ON CLASS RATES POSTPONED UNTIL FEBRUARY 16

Hearings on revisions of class rates on intrastate railroad traffic in Nebraska have been postponed by the state railway commission. Postponed several times previously the hearings had been scheduled to start December 15. They were postponed Saturday until February 16.

Death of U. G. Powell, rate expert for the commission, under whose direction the commission's investigation of the rates was being carried on, was one of the causes of the postponement.

Another factor was the result of action of the interstate commerce commission. It postponed the effective date of its interstate revision from February 1 to April, lessening the need for speed in adjusting the intrastate rates. A crowded commission docket and desire of several interested parties to have more time in which to prepare for the hearings were further reasons given by the commission for the postponement.

BALL PLAYERS IS BACK IN PEN FOR VIOLATING PAROLE

Archie Kelsey, Indian ball player under contract with the Boston Braves is back in the state penitentiary.

Kelsey said he signed a contract with the Braves after he was paroled from the state prison last March. The contract was to be effective at the expiration of his parole.

Last week Kelsey was arrested in Iowa on an automobile theft charge. Declared a parole violator, Kelsey was returned from Sioux City Friday evening by N. T. Harmon, state parole officer.

Kelsey was sentenced in January, 1928 for two years each on a burglary and grand larceny charge.

ICE PICK WEAPON USED BY ROBBER

OMAHA, Dec. 6—(AP)—Roy Marquis of Omaha early today was robbed of $10 by a holdup man, who forced him to get out of bed and, at the point of an ice pick, march four blocks before the money was taken.

Number of Cases Of Poliomyelitis Declines in State

With the approach of winter the number of new cases of poliomyelitis in Nebraska shows a decline of about 66 per cent in November, as compared with October, as revealed in the monthly bulletin just issued by State Health Director Bartholomew. October brought the peak for that disease, 136 cases out of 274 for the present calendar year up to this time being recorded in that month. In November only 47 cases were reported.

Diptheria, however, registered a slight increase from 52 cases in October to 57 in November. Influenza more than doubled, but the number of victims is still insignificant—13 in Novxember, compared with 6 in October. Chickenpox jumped from 71 cases in the prior month to 240 in the later one, while smallpox increases from 30 to 34.

Measles fell off from 42 cases to 25; typhoid fever, from 15 to 4; and scarlet fever, from 107 to 100.

The November tuberculosis list shows 33 cases, to 28 in October. Cerebro-spinal meninigitis was reported in 4 cases during November, as against 3 in October.

STATE RECEIVES 37 SNOWPLOWS TO USE ON HIGHWAYS

Several weeks prior to the recent heavy snowstorm in western Nebraska, the state public works department had contracted for 37 additional blade snowplows for use in clearing highways after severe blizzards had blocked them. This equipment is now available and will be in service during the winter, as needed.

The blades are 10 feet long and about 8 inches in height. They are to be attached in front of regular highway maintenance trucks, which will furnish the power in removing the snow from the roadway.

The Good Roads Machinery Co. of Chicago obtained the contract on its bid of $10,684, which is an average of $289 apiece. The plows were delivered at 33 different points, freight paid. Two of them came to Lincoln and two each went to Beatrice, Red Cloud, and Hastings. The others were shipped, one each, to 29 stations.

Other bids received were $11,044.50 for Baker snowplows and $11,550 for Gettleman plows.

CUT DOWN SIZE ROAD MARKERS

Those Used on Omaha Streets Are To Be Smaller.

An agreement whereby the state of Nebraska will furnish highway markers smaller than the regulation size to be placed on portions of routes within the city of Omaha, and will be arranged in two rows on either side of the supporting posts, instead of down the middle, was reached Saturday morning at a conference held in Governor Weaver's office.

Mayor R. L. Metcalfe of Omaha and Public Relations Director R. J. Low of that city gave their promise that a big welcome sign will be erected by Omaha at the west end of the Douglas street bridge over the Missouri river, to greet automobilists driving across from Council Bluffs.

State Engineer Cochran was called into the confab and said his department would provide the new highway markers needed to replace those now on the streets of Omaha. The ones to be taken down will be used eleswhere on federal and state highways.

While the new signs and the numbering on them will be smaller, they will conform to the standard shapes and types. The city officials thought that smaller ones would look neater, and that each one would show up more distinctly by grouping them in two rows, thus allowing more space between.

While at the capitol, Mayor Metcalfe called on Attorney General Sorensen to discuss plans for construction of a new bridge across the Missouri at the foot of Farnam street in Omaha. A special act of congress authorized this structure to be built and created a special commission to have charge of the project. The mayors of Omaha and Council Bluffs, the attorney general of Nebraska, and one citizen of each city are members of the commission.

Mayor Metcalfe said that no definite plan for financing construction of the bridge has yet been adopted, but that some method of paying for it out of toll revenues to be collected after its completion will doubtless be worked out. The city's legal department is now engaged in preparing an opinion as to how this may be done.

ENTER BIDS FOR NEW FIRE TRUCK

Price Varies From $8,500 to $11,400 For Hook and Ladder Apparatus.

Six firms entered bids Saturday morning to supply the city fire department with the new hook and ladder truck.

The bids varied from $8,500 to $11,400, the difference being largely due to the type of construction. According to Commissioner William Foster, the three high offers of $11,400 each are from companies which specialize in fire truck manufacture, while the others are all from firms that assemble fire apparatus on standard truck bodies. City Engineer D. L. Erickson will make his recommendation on the bids following a conference with the representatives of the competing companies.

The bids were: Mack Motor Truck Co., $11,250; White Truck Co., $10,260; Anderson Co., $8,500; Seagrave Co., $11,400; Ahrens-Fox Co., $11,400; and American La France Co., $11,400.

Bids were also opened by the city clerk on the projected new water main for M street from Eleventh to Fourteenth. A 10-inch pipe will be laid to replace the four and six inch variety which was put down about a quarter of a century ago.

The bids were: Knudsen, 6,4,438; Dobson-Robinson Co., $6,479; and Vlasnik Co., $6,318.

Youth Injures Foot When Kicks Window

Accidentally kicking through a window in the Y. M. C. A. shower room Friday night, Robert Soukup, 19, 3039 Stratford avenue, severed a tendon in his right foot, near the heel. He was attended by Dr. George E Lewis, city physician, and Dr. W. C Becker at St. Elizabeth's hospital and then taken home.

DINGWELL STORE BURCHARD ROBBED

(Special to The Star.)

BURCHARD, Neb., Dec. 6—Robbers worked in Burchard the night or early morning of Friday, and escaped with loot to the amount of several hundred dollars. The general store of F. E. Dingwell was pilfered, the thieves gaining admittance by breaking a rear window and prying open the door, and also prying open an inner door that separated the warehouse from the store proper. About $8 in small change was taken from the cash drawer and a considerable amount of groceries and clothing was stolen.

150 ATTEND FARM BUREAU DINNER

W. H. Brokaw Gives Talk On Development of Extension Work.

With 150 in attendance, the annual dinner meeting of the Lancaster county farm bureau was held Saturday noon at the Lindell hotel. W. H. Brokaw, director of extension work in Nebraska, and Mrs. Eva Morse, member of the board of education at Omaha, were the chief speakers.

The bureau adopted resolutions expressing sympathy for the relatives of Carl H. Becker and W. F. Dale, late members of the organization. It was further resolved that the death of these two men "leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members and friends of this organization, and will provide a serious loss to the community and the public."

Brokaw spoke on the development of extension work throughout the state. He said that he felt the work was making worthwhile accomplishments, as evidenced by the thousands of boys and girls enrolled in 4-H work and the hundreds of women's project groups that are now active. Mrs. Morse devoted her talk primarily to the subject of adult education for women, stressing the opportunities farm women have in that field.

Entertainment was furnished by the University Players, who presented a one-act play and by a musical trio in charge of Miss Valorita Callen, connected with the University School of Music. Brief talks were given by County Agent J. F. Purbaugh and Assistant County Agent Gladys Woodward.

BRANSON MAKES ANOTHER OFFER

Would Allow City to Bore Wells 150 Feet Deep on Land.

Charles M. Branson, who has repeatedly urged the city to test for its water supply on his farm west of the penitentiary, and who refused to sign a permit agreement recently framed by the city attorney, brought his own draft of a formal assent to the mayor and city attorney Friday. Frank A. Peterson, city attorney, said Saturday morning, that he was considering the agreement submitted, but that in the meantime he was also framing a document that would protect the city's interest if the tests are made.

Branson's suggested agreement, merely gives the city permission to sink the wells on his farm "to a depth limit of 150 feet, from this date until March 1, 1931, leaving the property in smooth agricultural condition."

Peterson is anxious to have inserted in any such document a clause exempting the city from any claims which might arise out of the tests.

In a postscript, Branson's letter says:

"I am advised by competent attorneys that the agreement the city attorney asked me to sign would be an easment or cloud on this property for all time."

Commissioner William Schroeder, head of the water department, took particular exception to the 150 depth limit, asserting the necessity to go as far down as needed to reach certain geological formation in order to determine the true worth of the well for water supply purposes.

WORLD WHEAT YIELD HIGHER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—The prospective wheat production of thirty-eight countries for 1930 was reported today by the department of agriculture to represent an increase of 5.6 per cent over a year ago.

The production was fixed at 3,343,961,000 bushels.

Egyptian production, estimated at 41,116,000 bushels, showed a decrease of about 4000000 bushels under a year ago.

The department also reported that exports of wheat including flour, from the United States from July 1 to November 29 were 78,018,000 bushels against 79,766,000 bushels during the same period last year.

HEARING ON CLASS RATES POSTPONED UNTIL FEBRUARY 16

Hearings on revisions of class rates on intrastate railroad traffic in Nebraska have been postponed by the state railway commission. Postponed several times previously the hearings had been scheduled to start December 15. They were postponed Saturday until February 16.

Death of U. G. Powell, rate expert for the commission, under whose direction the commission's investigation of the rates was being carried on, was one of the causes of the postponement.

Another factor was the result of action of the interstate commerce commission. It postponed the effective date of its interstate revision from February 1 to April, lessening the need for speed in adjusting the intrastate rates. A crowded commission docket and desire of several interested parties to have more time in which to prepare for the hearings were further reasons given by the commission for the postponement.

BALL PLAYERS IS BACK IN PEN FOR VIOLATING PAROLE

Archie Kelsey, Indian ball player under contract with the Boston Braves is back in the state penitentiary.

Kelsey said he signed a contract with the Braves after he was paroled from the state prison last March. The contract was to be effective at the expiration of his parole.

Last week Kelsey was arrested in Iowa on an automobiew theft charge. Declared a parole violator, Kelsey was returned from Sioux City Friday evening by N. T. Harmon, state parole officer.

Kelsey was sentenced in January, 1928 for two years each on a burglary and grand larceny charge.

ICE PICK WEAPON USED BY ROBBER

OMAHA, Dec. 6—(AP)—Roy Marquis of Omaha early today was robbed of $10 by a holdup man, who forced him to get out of bed and, at the point of an ice pick, march four blocks before the money was taken.

Number of Cases Of Poliomyelitis Declines in State

With the approach of winter the number of new cases of poliomyelitis in Nebraska shows a decline of about 66 per cent in November, as compared with October, as revealed in the monthly bulletin just issued by State Health Director Bartholomew. October brought the peak for that disease, 136 cases out of 274 for the present calendar year up to this time being recorded in that month. In November only 47 cases were reported.

Diptheria, however, registered a slight increase from 52 cases in October to 57 in November. Influenza more than doubled, but the number of victims is still insignificant—13 in Novxember, compared with 6 in October. Chickenpox jumped from 71 cases in the prior month to 240 in the later one, while smallpox increasss from 30 to 64.

Measles fell off from 42 cases to 25; typhoid fever, from 15 to 4; and scarlet fever, from 107 to 100.

The November tuberculosis list shows 33 cases, to 28 in October. Cerebro-spinal meningitis was reported in 4 cases during November, as against 3 in October.

STATE RECEIVES 37 SNOWPLOWS TO USE ON HIGHWAYS

Several weeks prior to the recent heavy snowstorm in western Nebraska, the state public works department had contracted for 37 additional blade snowplows for use in clearing highways after severe blizzards had blocked them. This equipment is now available and will be in service during the winter, as needed.

The blades are 10 feet long and about 8 inches in height. They are to be attached in front of regular highway maintenance trucks, which will furnish the power in removing the snow from the roadway.

The Good Roads Machinery Co. of Chicago obtained the contract on its bid of $10,684, which is an average of $289 apiece. The plows were delivered at 33 different points, freight paid. Two of them came to Lincoln and two each went to Beatrice, Red Cloud, and Hastings. The others were shipped, one each, to 29 stations.

Other bids received were $11,044.50 for Baker snowplows and $11,650 for Gettleman plows.

Northwestern Signed On Cornhusker Football Schedule

Wildcats To Meet 1931 Nebraska Team In Game On Evanston Gridiron

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The University of Nebraska football schedule for 1931 was just one game short of completion Saturday with the announcement from Kansas City that Northwestern university and the University of Kansas had been added to the Cornhusker grid card.

Athletic Director H. D. Gish of the University of Nebraska announced the signing of the Northwestern pact following a series of telephone conversations with "Tug" Wilson, former Drake director who is at present head of athletics at the Evanston institution.

Their Second Contest.

The Nebraska-Northwestern game is booked for Oct. 3, 1931, on the Evanston gridiron. While the arrangement is for only one year, Directors Gish and Wilson expressed the belief that it would pave the way to continued relations between the two schools.

When the Huskers and Wildcats meet at Evanston next fall it will be the second time teams of the institutions have clashed on the football field. In 1902, Northwestern came to Lincoln for a Thanksgiving day game and was turned back, 12-0. This was the year when Coach "Bunny" Booth sent the Scarlet through an all-victorious season, the Nebraska goal line being uncrossed that year.

Opening Game for Wildcats.

Nebraska tackles the Purple next fall the week before the Hanley eleven meets Notre Dame. It will be opening game for the Wildcats and also the curtain-raiser for the Husker card, as arranged at present. It is understood, however, there is a strong possibility Nebraska will schedule a game for Sept 26 to help with preparations for the Northwestern clash.

With the announcement that Kansas had made its peace with the Big Six conference, the Jayhawker game immediately bobbed back on the Nebraska schedule. The Jayhawks will appear in Lincoln Saturday, Oct. 24, and are expected to play the Homecoming day game.

Nebraska's Schedule.

The Cornhusker schedule now includes two games with Big Ten opponents and one intersectional contest—Pittsburgh. The card:

Oct. 3—Northwestern at Evanston.
Oct. 10—Oklahoma at Lincoln.
Oct. 24—Kansas at Lincoln.
Oct. 31—Missouri at Columbia
Nov. 7—Iowa university at Lincoln.
Nov. 14—Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.
Nov. 21—Iowa State at Lincoln.
Nov. 26—Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

Conference Meet Here.

The Big Six conference will hold its 1931 track and field championships at the University of Nebraska Memorial stadium, May 22 and 23. The stadium, which will also be the scene of the national A. A. U. track and field championships next July, housed the 1930 Big Six meet.

The indoor meet was voted to the University of Missouri and will be held March 7. Tennis and wrestling tournaments were erased from the conference schedule last spring, championships in these sports being decided on a dual meet basis. The conference swimming meet will be held at Kansas City, March 14.

Baseball, wrestling, tennis and swimming schedules in conference competition announced by Nebraska:

Spring Schedules.

Baseball—May 1-2, Iowa State at Lincoln; May 11-12, Oklahoma at Lincoln; May 15-16, Missouri at Columbia, May 22-23, Kansas at Lincoln; May 26-27, Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.

MINOR LEAGUES IN SORRY SHAPE

Games Under Arc Lights Only Hope of Saving Smaller Loops.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 — Night baseball may be the salvation of a number of the smaller minor leagues that have been hit hard by the economic depression and other factors, in the opinion of Thomas J. Hickey of Chicago, president of the American association for the past 20 years and one of the most prominent ment in minor league baseball.

Hickey, who has been in Montreal all week attending the convention of the National Association of Minor Leagues, said he has been watching the effect of night baseball on attendance at minor league parks with considerable interest. He is hopeful that before the 1931 baseball season opens economic conditions will be greatly improved and believes that night baseball may be the solution of the troubles of a number of minor league clubs.

Minors In Bad Way.

It was pointed out during the convention here by Branch Rickey, vice president and general business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, that since 1926, 13 minor leagues have passed out of existence and, furthermore, that three class D leagues, two class B leagues and one class A league are facing difficulties in opening the 1931 season.

Rickey said that the major leagues, which meet in New York next week, must recognize that a condition exists that calls for the serious thought of organized baseball.

Hickey is just as much a student of baseball conditions as is Rickey, one of the brainiest men in the game, and the American association president is confident that night baseball, which gives many persons a chance to see games that they could not attend, were they staged in the day time, may be the key to getting many minor league clubs out of the "red" next season.

Night Ball In Infancy.

"Night baseball is in its infancy as far as the American association is concerned," said Hickey. "Last year, night baseball was tried out with success at Indianapolis, in company with Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, and I think it worked out very well.

"The Pacific Coast league has tried out night baseball more extensively than we have in the association six cities on the coast staged night games last year. The lighting systems of ball parks are being improved steadily and night baseball is steadily making headway."

A junior world series, including the winners of the pennants in the American association, the International league and the Pacific Coast league, would interest the public, in Hickey's opinion. A three-cornered series of this type should be staged on the coast, where the late summer weather would be good, he said.

Husker Tackle On Second 'All' Team

Hugh Rhea, Nebraska tackle, is named second "All-America" on the Collyer's Eye selections. Sington, Alabama, and Edwards, Washington State, are the first-string tackles and Lubratovich of Wisconsin is the other second team choice. Fifty prominent coaches assisted in the selections.

ROCKNE CHOOSES ALL-TIME BACKS

Thorpe, Oliphant, Nevers, Drury Best in History Of Gridiron Sport.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6—(AP)—Speaking to a radio audience on the eve of the Southern California-Notre Dame football classic, Knute Rockne, famous coach of the Irish, named four men as his choice for an all-time backfield.

Rockne named Morley Drury of Southern California at quarterback, Jim Thorpe of the Carlisle Indians and Elmer Oliphant of Army as halfbacks and Ernie Nevers of Stanford as fullback.

The talk was an interview by Mark Kelly, sports editor of the Los Angeles examiner, and Warren A. Brown, sports editor of the Chicago Herald-Examiner.

Sidesteps Comparisons.

Asked how he rated the 1930 Notre Dame team with those of other years, particularly with the "Four Horsemen," Rockne said:

"Well, I don't like to compare teams of different eras. It may be that this team is better and it may not be better. Until we lost Savoldi, I think this team was a better team offensively, and just about as good defensively."

Rockne said the present team is just about 65 per cent as strong as the 1929 squad.

"But we are playing just as good football," he said.

No. Alumni at Sing Sing.

"If you were to leave Notre Dame," asked Brown, "where would you like to coach?"

"Well, that is pretty hard to say I probably would prefer to coach in an orphan asylum or at Sing Sing. At an orphan asylum, there are no parents to lambast you because their darling boy is not playing, and at Sing Sing the alumni do not come around to pester you."

Brown then asked if Rockne had heard any reports about the situation at the University of California respecting Hanley of Northwestern and Zuppke of Illinois.

"I have not heard much about it," he replied. "My angle on football coaching is this, that professionally we should stick together a little better and not be acting like a lot of vaudeville actors, swearing at the other chap and wishing we had this material and all that sort of thing.

"I do feel that the coaching job up at Berkeley is one of the real coaching jobs in America, a real opportunity, and I think it would mean much for Zuppke or Hanley if they could secure the position."

Elm Park Defeats Christian Cagers

Four rather lop-sided games Friday night at the "Y" marked the opening contests in division 1 of Class B in the Y. M. C. A. Church league. Elm Park M. E defeated East Lincoln Christian, 25-6, in a fast, hard game. These two teams are apparently the strongest in the division. There was little competition in the other three clashes, St. Marks, St Paul and Union winning with only slight difficulty.

Although Elm Park had a considerable point margin over East Lincoln Christian, their game was hard fought throughout. Clark, Allen and Miller were strong in the Elm Park lineup, while Lanning and Lagoni stood out for East Lincoln Christian. Cruise, St. Marks, with 15 points as the high scorer of the evening. Murray, St. Paul, made 10 points and Clark, Elm Park, accounted for 8.

KANSAS BOWS TO "BIG SIX" WILL

Conference Membership Restored On Pledge To Clean House.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 6—(AP)—The Big Six conference was intact today, the University of Kansas having been reinstated by action of the governing faculty council in annual session here.

Announcement of the action, made public late yesterday, disposed of a situation which had its inception six weeks ago in Columbia, Mo., when the faculty representatives voted to oust Kansas from the circuit upon charges of subsidization and recruiting. The same conferees who passed the Columbia resolution yesterday voted to rescind the motion, restoring Kansas to membership.

Bausch on the Outside.

The Jayhawkers, however, return to the good graces of the conference without the services of James (Jarring Jim) Bausch, who was declared ineligible in a statement presented to the conference by George C. Shaad, University of Kansas faculty representative. Bausch, the storm center of the Kansas controversy because of his $75 a month job as an insurance salesman, become ineligible under a recent conference resolution on subsidization which the Kansas athletic board approved last Tuesday.

In addition to the declaration on the status of Bausch, the statement read by Professor Shaad, invited an investigation into the eligibility of other K. U. athletes.

Committee to Investigate.

By motion, this was referred to the eligibility committee, composed of S. W. Beyer, Iowa State; H. H. King, Kansas Aggies, and S. W. Reaves, Oklahoma Originally, Professor Shaad was a member, but it was pointed out that it was the policy of the conference to eliminate any member of the committee whose own school was involved in a question of eligibility.

The announcement that Kansas had been reinstated was passed along to the athletic directors and coaches, who had been considering routine business, while awaiting the final decision of the Kansas case before starting on the arrangement of schedules. Schedules for spring sports, baseball, track, swimming and tennis, were completed late last night.

A resolution recommending establishment of "B" teams, which would be allowed to compete in separate contests, was submitted to the athletic directors, who in turn will send them to the facutly representatives

Bows to Conference Will.

The statement issued by Delegate Shaad, on behalf of Kansas, follows:

"1—At the Columbia conference, October 24, 1930, it developed that there was a difference of opinion between the other representatives and the delegate from the University of Kansas regarding the interpretation of conference rules. The University of Kansas will be bound by the majority action of the conference in all matters of interpretation of such rules

"2—The University of Kansas unqualifiedly endorses the resolution as recommended to the conference by the group of school representatives which met in Kansas City November 29, 1930, and will do its utmost to live up to it. It declares James Bausch ineligible, under the resolution.

"3—As a member of the conference, the University of Kansas is ready to submit the names of any of its athletes upon which there is doubt regarding their eligibility to the conference or to any committee it may designate and will be bound by their decisions."

Statement by Big Six.

The statement of the Big Six council:

"1—The resolution recommended by the joint meeting of executive officers, faculty representatives and athletic directors on November 28, 1930, was adopted.

"2—The statement from the University of Kansas as presented by Dean Shaad, was accepted in good faith and incorporated in our records.

"3—In view of the statement from Dean Shaad, the resolution adopted at Columbia, Mo., on October 24, 1930, declining to schedule games with the University of Kansas, was rescinded."

Dawson Dickering For Coaching Job

CHICAGO, Dec. 6— (AP) —Fred Dawson, coach of Nebraska's powerhouse football teams from 1921 to 1924, today admitted he had several good offers to return to his favorite field of sport next year. He was an interested spectator at the Big Ten powwow, but said he had no offers from any Big Ten universities.

"I expect to land something so I can get back in the harness next fall," Dawson said. "This football business is embedded so deeply in my blood that I can't give it up. I got to be in there coaching."

Reports around the Hotel Sherman lobby were that Western Reserve might offer a post to the man who coached Nebraska to two straight victories over Notre Dame—the first and last time the trick was accomplished at Knute Rockne's expense.

Forced Out By Illness.

Illness forced Dawson to leave Nebraska at the end of the 1924 season. He retired and for the past year and one half he has been recuperating on a Colorado ranch.

"But when I read the papers about football, I couldn't sleep or eat until I had seen some games," he confided. "I jumped a train and saw the Notre Dame-Northwestern and Notre Dame-Army games. And I was surprised to see that the old game hasn't changed much. The Warner and Rockne systems are about the same."

Ah, how I'd like to tackle Notre Dame again!" he sighed.

Northwestern Signed On Cornhusker Football Schedule

Wildcats To Meet 1931 Nebraska Team In Game On Evanston Gridiron

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The University of Nebraska football schedule for 1931 was just one game short of completion Saturday with the announcement from Kansas City that Northwestern university and the University of Kansas had been added to the Cornhusker grid card.

Athletic Director H. D. Gish of the University of Nebraska announced the signing of the Northwestern pact following a series of telephone conversations with "Tug" Wilson, former Drake director who is at present head of athletics at the Evanston institution.

Their Second Contest.

The Nebraska-Northwestern game is booked for Oct. 3, 1931, on the Evanston gridiron. While the arrangement is for only one year, Directors Gish and Wilson expressed the belief that it would pave the way to continued relations between the two schools.

When the Huskers and Wildcats meet at Evanston next fall it will be the second time teams of the institutions have clashed on the football field. In 1902, Northwestern came to Lincoln for a Thanksgiving day game and was turned back, 12-0. This was the year when Coach "Bunny" Booth sent the Scarlet through an all-victorious season, the Nebraska goal line being uncrossed that year.

Opening Game for Wildcats.

Nebraska tackles the Purple next fall the week before the Hanley eleven meets Notre Dame. It will be opening game for the Wildcats and also the curtain-raiser for the Husker card, as arranged at present. It is understood, however, there is a strong possibility Nebraska will schedule a game for Sept. 26 to help with preparations for the Northwestern clash.

With the announcement that Kansas had made its peace with the Big Six conference, the Jayhawker game immediately bobbed back on the Nebraska schedule. The Jayhawks will appear in Lincoln Saturday, Oct. 24, and are expected to play the Homecoming day game.

Nebraska's Schedule.

The Cornhusker schedule now includes two games with Big Ten opponents and one intersectional contest—Pittsburgh. The card:

Oct. 3—Northwestern at Evanston.
Oct. 10—Oklahoma at Lincoln.
Oct. 24—Kansas at Lincoln.
Oct. 31—Missouri at Columbia.
Nov. 7—Iowa university at Lincoln.
Nov. 14—Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.
Nov. 21—Iowa State at Lincoln.
Nov. 26—Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

Conference Meet Here.

The Big Six conference will hold its 1931 track and field championships at the University of Nebraska Memorial stadium, May 22 and 23. The stadium, which will also be the scene of the national A. A. U. track and field championships next July, housed the 1930 Big Six meet.

The indoor meet was voted to the University of Missouri and will be held March 7. Tennis and wrestling tournaments were erased from the conference schedule last spring, championships in these sports being decided on a dual meet basis. The conference swimming meet will be held at Kansas City, March 14.

Baseball, wrestling, tennis and swimming schedules in conference competition announced by Nebraska:

Spring Schedules.

Grogan Victor Over Home Town Opponent

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 6—(AP)—Tommy Grogan, Omaha lightweight defended his home town crown last night by winning a 10-round decision over Millio Militti, Omaha. Grogan, on the lightweight comeback trail after falling from the ranks of the top-notchers held the upper hand throughout and scored the only knockdown of the bout.

MINOR LEAGUES IN SORRY SHAPE

Games Under Arc Lights Only Hope of Saving Smaller Loops.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 — Night baseball may be the salvation of a number of the smaller minor leagues that have been hit hard by the economic depression and other factors, in the opinion of Thomas J. Hickey of Chicago, president of the American association for the past 20 years and one of the most prominent ment in minor league baseball.

Hickey, who has been in Montreal all week attending the convention of the National Association of Minor Leagues, said he has been watching the effect of night baseball on attendance at minor league parks with considerable interest. He is hopeful that before the 1931 baseball season opens economic conditions will be greatly improved and believes that night baseball may be the solution of the troubles of a number of minor league clubs.

Minors In Bad Way.

It was pointed out during the convention here by Branch Rickey, vice president and general business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, that since 1926, 13 minor leagues have passed out of existence and, furthermore, that three class D leagues, two class B leagues and one class A league are facing difficulties in opening the 1931 season.

Rickey said that the major leagues, which meet in New York next week, must recognize that a condition exists that calls for the serious thought of organized baseball.

Hickey is just as much a student of baseball conditions as is Rickey, one of the brainiest men in the game, and the American association president is confident that night baseball, which gives many persons a chance to see games that they could not attend, were they staged in the day time, may be the key to getting many minor league clubs out of the "red" next season.

Night Ball In Infancy.

"Night baseball is in its infancy as far as the American association is concerned," said Hickey. "Last year, night baseball was tried out with success at Indianapolis, in company with Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, and I think it worked out very well.

"The Pacific Coast league has tried out night baseball more extensively than we have in the association. Six cities on the coast staged night games last year. The lighting systems of ball parks are being improved steadily and night baseball is steadily making headway."

A junior world series, including the winners of the pennants in the American association, the International league and the Pacific Coast league, would interest the public, in Hickey's opinion. A three-cornered series of this type should be staged on the coast, where the late summer weather would be good, he said.

Husker Tackle On Second 'All' Team

ROCKNE CHOOSES ALL-TIME BACKS

Thorpe, Oliphant, Nevers, Drury Best in History Of Gridiron Sport.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6—(AP)—Speaking to a radio audience on the eve of the Southern California-Notre Dame football classic, Knute Rockne, famous coach of the Irish, named four men as his choice for an all-time backfield.

Rockne named Morley Drury of Southern California at quarterback, Jim Thorpe of the Carlisle Indians and Elmer Oliphant of Army as halfbacks and Ernie Nevers of Stanford as fullback.

The talk was an interview by Mark Kelly, sports editor of the Los Angeles examiner, and Warren A. Brown, sports editor of the Chicago Herald-Examiner.

Sidesteps Comparisons.

Asked how he rated the 1930 Notre Dame team with those of other years, particularly with the "Four Horsemen," Rockne said:

"Well, I don't like to compare teams of different eras. It may be that this team is better and it may not be better. Until we lost Savoldi, I think this team was a better team offensively, and just about as good defensively."

Rockne said the present team is just about 65 per cent as strong as the 1929 squad.

"But we are playing just as good football," he said.

No. Alumni at Sing Sing.

"If you were to leave Notre Dame," asked Brown, "where would you like to coach?"

"Well, that is pretty hard to say. I probably would prefer to coach in an orphan asylum or at Sing Sing. At an orphan asylum, there are no parents to lambast you because their darling boy is not playing, and at Sing Sing the alumni do not come around to pester you."

Brown then asked if Rockne had heard any reports about the situation at the University of California respecting Hanley of Northwestern and Zuppke of Illinois.

"I have not heard much about it," he replied. "My angle on football coaching is this, that professionally we should stick together a little better and not be acting like a lot of vaudeville actors, swearing at the other chap and wishing we had this material and all that sort of thing.

"I do feel that the coaching job up at Berkeley is one of the real coaching jobs in America, a real opportunity, and I think it would mean much for Zuppke or Hanley if they could secure the position."

Elm Park Defeats Christian Cagers

Four rather lop-sided games Friday night at the "Y" marked the opening contests in division 1 of Class B in the Y. M. C. A. Church league. Elm Park M. E. defeated East Lincoln Christian, 25-6, in a fast, hard game. These two teams are apparently the strongest in the division. There was little competition in the other three clashes, St. Marks, St Paul and Union winning with only slight difficulty.

Although Elm Park had a considerable point margin over East Lincoln Christian, their game was hard fought throughout. Clark, Allen and Miller were strong in the Elm Park lineup, while Lanning and Lagoni stood out for East Lincoln Christian. Cruise, St. Marks, with 15 points as the high scorer of the evening. Murray, St. Paul, made 10 points and Clark, Elm Park, accounted for 8.

KANSAS BOWS TO "BIG SIX" WILL

Conference Membership Restored On Pledge To Clean House.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 6—(AP)—The Big Six conference was intact today, the University of Kansas having been reinstated by action of the governing faculty council in annual session here.

Announcement of the action, made public late yesterday, disposed of a situation which had its inception six weeks ago in Columbia, Mo., when the faculty representatives voted to oust Kansas from the circuit upon charges of subsidization and recruiting. The same conferees who passed the Columbia resolution yesterday voted to rescind the motion restoring Kansas to membership.

Bausch on the Outside.

The Jayhawkers, however, return to the good graces of the conference without the services of James (Jarring Jim) Bausch, who was declared ineligible in a statement presented to the conference by George C. Shaad, University of Kansas faculty representative. Bausch, the storm center of the Kansas controversy because of his $75 a month job as an insurance salesman, become ineligible under a recent conference resolution on subsidization which the Kansas athletic board approved last Tuesday.

In addition to the declaration on the status of Bausch, the statement read by Professor Shaad, invited an investigation into the eligibility of other K. U. athletes.

Committee to Investigate.

By motion, this was referred to the eligibility committee, composed of S. W. Beyer, Iowa State; H. H. King, Kansas Aggies, and S. W. Reaves, Oklahoma. Originally, Professor Shaad was a member, but it was poinetd out that it was the policy of the conference to eliminate any member of the committee whose own school was involved in a question of eligibility.

The announcement that Kansas had been reinstated was passed along to the athletic directors and coaches, who had been considering routine business, while awaiting the final decision of the Kansas case before starting on the arrangement of schedules. Schedules for spring sports, baseball, track, swimming and tennis, were completed late last night.

A resolution recommending establishment of "B" teams, which would be allowed to compete in separate contests, was submitted to the athletic directors, who in turn will send them to the facutly representatives.

Bows to Conference Will.

The statement issued by Delegate Shaad, on behalf of Kansas, follows:

"1—At the Columbia conference, October 24, 1930, it developed that there was a difference of opinion between the other representatives and the delegate from the University of Kansas rgarding the interpretation of conference rules. The University of Kansas will be bound by the majority action of the conference in all matters of interpretation of such rules.

"2—The University of Kansas unqualifiedly endorses the resolution as recommended to the conference by the group of school representatives which met in Kansas City November 29, 1930, and will do its utmost to live up to it. It declares James Bausch ineligible, under the resolution.

"3—As a member of the conference, the University of Kansas is ready to submit the names of any of its athletes upon which there is doubt regarding their eligibility to the conference or to any committee it may designate and will be bound by their decisions."

Statement by Big Six.

The statement of the Big Six council:

"1—The resolution recommended by the joint meeting of executive officers, faculty representatives and athletic directors on November 28, 1930, was adopted.

"2—The statement from the University of Kansas as presented by Dean Shaad, was accepted in good faith and incorporated in our records.

"3—In view of the statement from Dean Shaad, the resolution adopted at Columbia, Mo., on October 24, 1930, declining to schedule games with the University of Kansas, was rescinded."

Dawson Dickering For Coaching Job

CHICAGO, Dec. 6— (AP) —Fred Dawson, coach of Nebraska's powerhouse football teams from 1921 to 1924, today admitted he had several good offers to return to his favorite field of sport next year. He was an interested spectator at the Big Ten powwow, but said he had no offers from any Big Ten universities.

"I expect to land something so I can get back in the harness next fall," Dawson said. "This football business is embedded so deeply in my blood that I can't give it up. I got to be in there coaching."

Reports around the Hotel Sherman lobby were that Western Reserve might offer a post to the man who coacher Nebraska to two straight victories over Notre Dame—the first and last time the trick was accomplished at Knute Rockne's expense.

Forced Out By Illness.

Illness forced Dawson to leave Nebraska at the end of the 1924 season. He rested and for the past year and one half he has been recuperating on a Colorado ranch.

"But when I read the papers about football, I couldn't sleep or eat until I had seen some games," he confided. "I jumped a train and saw the Notre Dame-Northwestern and Notre Dame-Army games. And I was surprised to see that the old game hasn't changed much. The Warner and Rockne systems are about the same."

Ah, how I'd like to tackle Notre Dame again!" he sighed.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— By John Hix

The bending or flexible stone shown yesterday, is found in Brazil. The stone can actually be bent by hand without breaking. A sample slab of this remarkable stone is now on exhibition at the Academy of National Sciences of Pennsylvania.

Most fish are nearsighted, but nature was especially kind to the South American "Four eye" or Anableps, depicted yesterday, inasmuch as she furnished this peculiar fish with an extra pair of eyes to use above water for far sight.

The eye of the "Anableps" is divided into two parts, the upper part being constructed for use above water, and the lower half for vision under water. The fish makes use of his long-sighted lense by swimming at the surface with his eyes half out of water.

Two Los Angeles men acquired the $60,000 building, shown yesterday, for $20 by agreeing to move it to make way for a new street. They had the building moved to a nearby vacant lot which they acquired for a third interest in the building.

Now they have a $100,000 investment, and all for $20.

The "Alsophila excelsa" is the tallest fern in the word. It attains a height of from 60 to 80 feet, as stated yesterday, but the average height is 50 feet.
